IRA Plans Rising

LONDON (NANA)—Both Britain and Northern Ireland have been warned: the outlawed Irish Republican Army is on the march again. Secret test mobilizations are being held north of the border—rehearsals for a carefully planned fifth-column rising.

It's a new IRA, with new leaders, men who have learned the grim lessons of modern war on the battlefields of Europe and in the Irish campaign against the British forces in Israel.

ARMS FLOWING

It is well armed and ably led. And there are formations in the Irish Republic to reinforce the divisions in the north, should the first blow fall to knock out the Loyalist forces in Ulster.

Arms have been flowing steadily into southern Irish ports for smuggling over the border. Funds from the United States have made the IRA stronger than at any time in the last 30 years.

But the most dangerous symptom of the new movement is the keen appreciation its leaders have for psychological warfare—the warfare of nerves. They bank on such swift action that any counter-attack by Britain will be paralyzed and the neutrality of the Irish Republic destroyed.

NO BOMBS

This time it will be no terrorist campaign, no bombs. Instead, there will be commando tactics, which the leaders hope will result in a bloodless revolution.

These are the facts gathered in Ireland. It is not another scare story. Officially, the government of Northern Ireland, the government of Eire and the police forces in both countries will not talk about the IRA. Many Nationalist leaders refuse to admit that it exists.

But behind the scenes there is fear—for the new IRA is far stronger and cleverer, and zero hour is near.

Dean Leaving Tokyo Monday

TOKYO (UPI)—Maj. Gen. William F. Dean, the hero of Taej, will leave Tokyo Monday evening for the United States, it was announced Saturday.

Communists Put Off Delivery of Captives

PANMUNJOM (AP)—Without explanation, the Communists Sunday put off until Thursday the delivery into Indian custody of more than 300 Allied prisoners including some Americans labeled by the Reds as "unwilling" to return home.

This delay followed release Saturday of 13 such prisoners—some of whom promptly said they wanted to go home all the

Louis Sarno, New York construction worker, holds two-year-old Francis La Madrid on his knee after he saved the boy from almost certain death. Louis saw the boy perched on a window ledge, four stories up. He dashed under the window, arms outstretched, and caught the boy as he plunged down. (Central Press Canadian.)

House Won't Discuss West Coast Road

The West Coast road to Tofino will not be considered at this session of the Legislature, Hon. P. A. Gagliardi, minister of public works, said Saturday. The minister flew to the West Coast centres of Tofino and Ucluelet Saturday to review the situation personally.

He was accompanied by district engineer Neil McCallum. "We may build this road at a time," he said. He indicated he would bring the question up at the spring session of the legislature. Appropriations could be made every year.

A new survey would have to be made, he said. At a luncheon at Ucluelet he said the road might be built through co-operation between the minister of lands and forests and himself, as minister of public works.

He invited a delegation from the West Coast to visit Victoria and see himself and the minister of lands and forests after the present session prorogues.

"We will have more time then and can discuss the problem more fully," he said.

A bid by the small logging operators' association to build the road was as much as a con-

Missing Man May Broadcast

LONDON (AP)—British officials believe that long-missing diplomat Donald Maclean may soon broadcast to the world from behind the Iron Curtain.

This theory emerged eight days after Chicago-born Melinda Maclean and her three children vanished in Switzerland—in order, the British think, to rejoin her husband somewhere in Europe's Red belt.

Maclean, debonair and brilliant, skipped his foreign office desk more than two years ago with a colleague, Guy Burgess. The greatest international man-hunt since the collaring of the Nazi war criminals followed.

Beria Said Safe in West After Escape

Fugitive Red, Aides Seek Asylum in U.S.

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UP)—The San Diego Union reported Saturday that a refugee claiming to be ousted Soviet secret police chief Lavrenti Beria has escaped from Russia and is offering to exchange top Russian secrets for asylum in the United States.

The newspaper reported in a copyright-dispatch—that the man claiming to be Beria and three other top Soviet Communists who escaped from under the eyes of Soviet guards are now hiding in a "deep-south-eastern country."

The newspaper did not say specifically where the men were hiding, but it said it came upon the story during an investigation of Communism in Latin America.

The newspaper said it was the intermediary through which the original contact was made between the man, the McCarthy.

The newspaper said it gave the information to the McCarthy subcommittee and to government investigating bodies.

Since then, an agent of the McCarthy committee has been in touch with the man representing himself as Beria who was ousted last July 9 as home minister and first deputy chairman of the council of ministers.

According to the information given the newspaper, Beria and his three companions escaped by plane from Russia and are hiding in a neutral country.

The Communist agent in Mexico City who forwarded the information described an elaborate but precise arrangement by which an American agent could contact the refugees in the neutral country.

The directions were carried out, and a preliminary contact was established, the Union said.

Wreck Reached By Helicopter

VANCOUVER (CP)—An RCAF helicopter late Saturday landed three men beside the wreckage of a Mitchell bomber on a snow-capped mountain 25 miles northeast of here.

An air force spokesman at Sea Island said Saturday night the men would camp by the wreckage overnight and start clearing a landing strip for the helicopter in the morning.

The helicopter will attempt to recover the bodies of five crew members lost when the Mitchell crashed last January on a flight from Saskatoon.

The helicopter dropped the three RCAF men at the 5,500-foot level of the mountain from a height of less than 10 feet.

Meanwhile, a seven-man ground party returned to Vancouver after abandoning an attempt to reach the wreckage. The party turned back after search officials found that a helicopter would be able to land men at the scene.

Earlier, it was reported that members of the ground party were suffering from exhaustion and minor injuries and would have to be flown out of the area.

However, an RCAF official later discounted this report and said the men had returned here under their own power.

Chilean Jets Jolt Cavalry

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—Chile paraded its oldest and newest style military mounts Saturday. The roar of the jet planes panicked 100 cavalry horses. In the resulting stampede 11 troopers in the armed forces day celebrations were injured, two seriously.

Referring to a previous meeting last year in Port Alberni, Mr. Gagliardi said he had pursued every avenue he said he would at that time.

He asked for federal aid on the basis of millions of dollars of revenue the federal government gets from that part of the country, and the value of the road for defense, he said.

The federal government has refused to help on the grounds that the road was not of sufficient importance to the Dominion at the present time, Mr. Gagliardi said.

He later sent a provincial engineer through for a reconnaissance report which has now been submitted to all interested parties, Mr. Gagliardi said.

Representatives of the various groups voiced appreciation for Mr. Gagliardi's visit. Now that he had visited the West Coast and looked the situation over, he had more idea of the potential of the West Coast and would work harder for them, they predicted.

Great Hoax or Fact? Probers Seek Answer

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate investigations subcommittee Saturday was reported studying a tip that Lavrenti P. Beria, deposed former boss of Russia's secret police, has escaped from Soviet Russia and is hiding in a neutral country.

The subcommittee's chairman, Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.), declined to comment on the report, which came from a Senate source.

The Senate source said three reportedly have been discussions in neutral countries of possible asylum for Beria in the West, perhaps even in the United States.

The newspaper said it had withheld publication of the story because of its importance until reports of it leaked in Washington.

The original report that four top Communist leaders had escaped from Russia and were seeking asylum here came to the San Diego newspaper as the result of an investigation it is making of Communist infiltration in Latin America.

FEAR FOR LIVES

The newspaper said the information was routed through a western hemisphere centre of Communist espionage operating out of Mexico City. The members of the centre now fear for their lives as a result of Beria's ouster by Premier Georgi Malenkov.

The newspaper said it gave the information to the McCarthy subcommittee and to government investigating bodies.

Tickle Fixed By 13 Stitches

CLEVELAND, O. (UP)—Octavio Giovannadine, 22, is going to lock the bathroom door the next time he shaves—or else get an electric shaver.

Giovannadine, who was recently married, was shaving with a straight razor when his wife suddenly tickled him. He jumped and the razor slit his chest open from his collar bone to the bottom of his ribs.

Doctors at Polyclinic Hospital sewed him up with 13 stitches.

Who's Unhappy?

TOKYO (NANA)—Japan's telephone corporation has at last got around to meeting 40-year-old applications for telephone installations, most of which were lodged in the prosperity years following the Russo-Japanese War of 1905.

There are today 399,000 unfilled applications for telephones in Japan, of which 113,800 are for Tokyo residents

Interior IWA Set Strike Vote

VANCOUVER (CP)—Policy committee of the International Woodworkers of America Saturday recommended the rejection by southern Interior loggers of a conciliation board award.

Woodsmen in the northern Interior have already set September 25 as the date for a government-supervised strike vote after turning down a recommended six-cent increase.

Some U.S. Cities Face 25-Cent Tariff

NEW YORK (AP)—The higher wages and salaries for transit employees.

The survey, covering all sections of the United States, disclosed no instances of prospective fare reductions but several of probable further increases.

In 18 of the largest cities, the average transit fare was 74 cents in 1943, a fraction over 10 cents in 1948 and 15 cents in 1953.

The nickel fare was well on the downgrade in 1943 and had all but disappeared in 1948 when a dime was the usual rate. Now the 10-cent fare is a rarity, year. Since the 15-cent rate went into effect a few weeks ago, passenger volume has dropped by 12 per cent as compared with the volume for the corresponding period last year—or nearly 4,500,000 riders a week.

In most cases the missing riders are driving their own cars or sharing in car pools.

There have been loud squawks from riders but mostly on an individual basis. In a hearing at Los Angeles the other day on a fare increase proposal, about 75 persons showed up wearing badges reading: "Stop the Fare Increase."

Explaining the need for higher fares, a spokesman for the Chicago transit authority says: "We sell service, and major factors are labor and materials and supplies. It is inevitable that the cost of our product should increase as our cost factors go up."

In 1943 the base pay for a Chicago streetcar operator was $1.02 an hour. It's now $1.92 and the authority is committed by union contract to raise this about 75 persons showed up

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

WE felt vaguely uneasy as our friends' car, loaded to the back window with luggage, disappeared around the corner.

Our friends had gone away for a week's holiday and left my wife and me as resident caretakers in charge of a house, a pig, two geese, a Great Dane, two Pekinese and seven Siamese cats.

I'll say one thing: the house behaved very well. No rocking back and forth on its foundations, or anything of that kind. But the animals did show some little behavior problems during our tenure.

The Great Dane (name of Dana) thought she was a Pekinese. She loved to frisk about the lawn, covering the ground in 10-foot leaps. When she was happy, her great tail lashed back and forth like a whip, nearly drawing blood every time it struck. Dana was an affectionate soul, but she thought she was a Pekinese.

One of the Pekinese (name of Ming) thought he was a Great Dane. If he was taken for a walk, he sailed up to large dogs with great assurance, ready for a fight.

Dana had her own bed in the room where we slept, but she was a restless sleeper, and her stirring kept my wife awake, so Dana was banished. She went meekly when ordered.

Ming the Pekinese wanted to stay in the room, but his habit of snorting made it out of the question as far as my wife was concerned. The little dog crept under the bed and refused to come out. Every time I reached my hand under the bed there was an ominous little snarl and (I thought) a gnashing of teeth. Ming, normally a gentle dog, was ready to battle for his right to stay in the bedroom.

For some half an hour, having made his point, he came trotting amiably out.

The other Pekinese lived permanently in a corral outside, because a physical weakness made it impossible to house train him.

The pig was called Dig-Dig, because he had once made a successful jail break and gone missing for several days before his owners recaptured him. He nosed into his pail of mash before I could dump it in his trough. Once I managed to get it past him into the trough, he usually jumped in with his food as he ate.

The two geese kept up a running cackle before and during meal time. Sometimes they hopped on a stump and stretched out their wings.

The Siamese cats were keen on helping with paper work. They jumped up and perched on any paper we happened to be working from. At other times they draped themselves over us, purring and crying in their deep, loud voices.

Four of the Siamese were small white kittens, mewing in a box. At intervals their mother saw fit to move house. She came padding across the room with one kitten after another clutched in her mouth, setting a course for some new dark corner.

Feeding the animals became a pleasant routine, and grunts, cackles, barks and miaows familiar morning and evening music. When our friends returned and we had to go home, we felt a little sad—especially in view of the fact that we may eventually meet the pig and the geese at the dinner table. However, we are not inconsolable.

Who Has It? Practical? When To Be Used?

H-Bomb Likened to Hole Card in Poker

It is difficult today to argue one point. There is no such thing as a hole card in the poker game of international armaments.

BY ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter
NEW YORK (AP)—The H-bomb now is something like a hole card in the poker game of international armaments.

No one admits having this hidden ace—having a practical H-bomb ready to use in a war. But his opponents can't be sure. Is it there? Is he bluffing? Will he draw it the next time around? If he doesn't, will he go on bluffing? Both the United States and Russia have admitted only making tests involving or contributing to hydrogen-type explosions. This means they've shown that H-bomb reactions are technically feasible.

That kind of controlled test is a long step from practical, deliverable H-bombs having 10 to 100 to 1,000 times the force of A-bombs. The peculiar nature of H-bombs raises difficult problems, different from those met with A-bombs.

POWERFUL EFFECT
Meanwhile Russia's claim, borne out by the U.S. atomic energy commission, of detonating a "type of hydrogen bomb" has "powerfully affected our thinking on numerous subjects."

Some senators and other officials call for strengthening our civilian defense. Some say we should work harder toward more potent and new weapons; another that our stockpile of atomic weapons is big enough now, and we should economize on the atomic program.

The A-bomb is a trigger or match for an H-bomb. The terrific heat and pressure generated by an A-bomb are needed to start the hydrogen chain reaction.

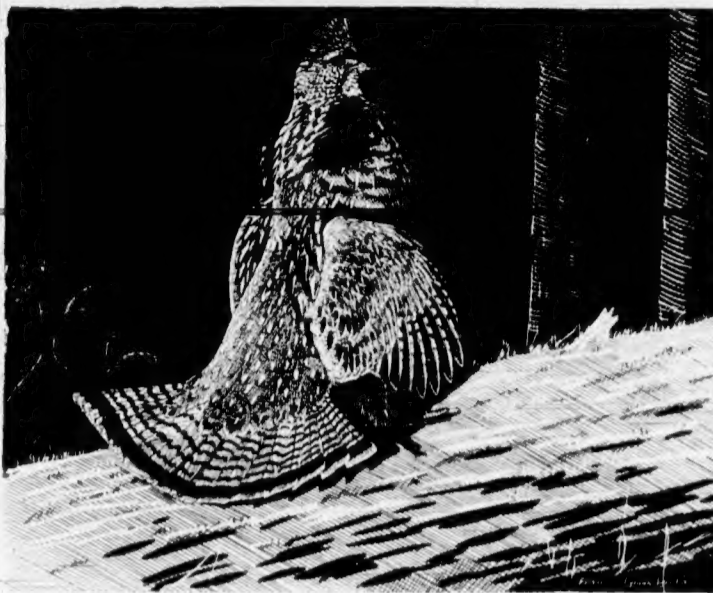

The hydrogen reaction works by fusing together the cores of two hydrogen atoms into one helium atom. The helium atom weighs less than the two hydrogen atoms. The lost mass again is released as energy.

POWER PACKING
This principle was known to scientists, including Russians, in the 1920s. But until the A-bomb came along, there was no trigger powerful enough to create hydrogen reaction.

The Eniwetok big blast a year ago is widely interpreted as meaning the same degree of hydrogen reaction was made to work, for a bigger bang on top of the A-bomb. The Russians clearly claim to have achieved a hydrogen reaction.

From eyewitness accounts at Eniwetok, one educated guess is that the H-bomb was the equivalent of exploding 1,000,000 tons of TNT. The original A-bombs dropped on Japan were equivalent to 20,000 tons of TNT. There is also speculation that A-bombs equivalent to 20,000 tons of TNT now have been developed.

Ruffed Grouse Well Known For Speed, Beauty, Edibility

—From an original drawing by F. L. Beebe.

BY C. J. GUIGUET
Provincial Museum Biologist

The ruffed grouse is perhaps the best known of all the gallinaceous birds on the continent, and as such needs little description here. Frank Beebe's excellent illustration covers all points except color. Two color phases may occur on the same range, one in which the overtones and tail feathers are rusty red, and one in which they are a beautiful shade of grey. The species is widely distributed, from Atlantic to Pacific seaboard, north to the tree limit and southward to the southern states where favorable habitat occurs.

WARY BIRD
It is highly rated as a game bird for its speedy flight, beauty and edibility. It is undoubtedly the best eating of all the native grouse-like birds and where hunted has developed a wariness that tries the metal of man and dog to the utmost. In the west these birds frequent the deciduous growth to a large extent; here they skulk and run through the undergrowth and when put to flight under such conditions it is almost impossible to bring a gun to bear on the speeding form as it hurtles through the trees, banking vertically through narrow openings and thundering off out of sight and out of range.

At other times, in the evening and early morning, flocks are often encountered around the edges of natural clearings and roadways, or sometimes roosting in the bordering willow and alder. At such times they often appear to be fearless, paying practically no attention to the intruder. It is at such times that their chief enemies, man, the great horned owl and the goshawk reap a harvest, but under most conditions the ruffed grouse is well able to take care of itself.

WING NOISE
What nature-loving person has not, as a youngster and since, followed this woodland noise to its source and watched in wonder the pomp and ceremony of the displaying male, as he strutted fan-tailed for his lady love? The drumming sound is not produced vocally, but by a rapid vibration of the wings. The most often heard vocal noises are the high pitched clucking alarm notes repeated with each step as the disturbed bird moves off through the cover, hackles and crest erect and that black eye watching you every move.

The ruffed grouse nests on the ground, and the brooding hen is practically invisible. She lays from nine to twelve

These birds are subject to a cyclic behavior that appears to run over 10-year periods in the northwest. The population builds up to vast numbers over that period, and then declines abruptly, so that cover once harboring coveys are completely devoid of birds. The cause or causes of this phenomenon, which is apparent in many other species of birds and mammals as well, has never been satisfactorily explained, despite continuous study by many scientists over the past half-century.

At the present time we are in the second year of a decline on the mainland and in the first year on Vancouver Island, where, for some inexplicable reason the cycle lags a year behind.

One of the best known features of the ruffed grouse, is the drumming behavior of the male. The familiar "pup-pup-pup" sound, which has been likened to the noise made by a small gas engine, is part of the springtime wherever this grouse occurs.

smooth, buff-colored eggs which are sometimes speckled with pale brown. The female is a devoted mother; individuals have been known to attack everything from a fox to a man in defending the young. Usually, however, she puts on the "wounded bird act" fluttering away, all the while uttering a peculiar whining note which is, perhaps, a signal for the chicks to hide.

PERFECT GAME BIRD

Of the reading I have done on this beautiful game bird, I like Charles B. Morris' thoughts, after a day in the field. He wrote: "In no other game bird do the tones of grey, black, cinnamon, and white shade and blend with such quiet harmony. Child of the wilderness that he is, in the full dark pupil of that eye surrounded by an iris of October's own brown, seem always to dwell the brooding shadows of the great forest he loves so well."

"And in the molding of him nature seems to have embodied all of the beauty, all of the charm, all of the inexplicable strangeness and romance of the autumnal woods and produced her feathered masterpiece—the perfect game bird, and wherever you chance to find him—in the still shadow of ravine and glen where the climbing bittersweet twines its orange offering about old stumps and windfalls, on rocky hillside clad with second growth where the wild barberry fruits in crimson racemes and berries of the winter-green flash among the leaves—or in the grass-grown tangles of birch meadow and maple swamp where glows the steady flame of the black alder—always is he the woodland's pride, alert, instinct with life, and filled with a spirit and dash that furnishes, when in such mixed cover as we were hunting this day, the very climax of shooting with the shotgun."

Freedom Due for Murderer Of Trotsky if He Wants It

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The murderer of Leon Trotsky, who ever he is, may walk out of jail some day soon a free man.

It has been 13 years since he killed Trotsky with an alpenstock. Today the slaying is as mysterious as it was then. So is the slayer.

He is eligible for parole this the mystery may never be solved. The killer swore he was not acting for the Soviet secret police.

He has been identified as five different men. He may be Frank Jacson of Canada, Jacques Mornard of Belgium, Salvador Torkoff of Russia or Jacques Vandendresch of Iran. Many armed attack on the Trotsky house by about 20 men. Trotsky and his wife escaped death by hiding under a bed as machine-guns raked the room.

On a rainy August 20, 1940, Mornard went to Trotsky's barricaded house. He found Trotsky feeding his pet rabbits in After five minutes, the guards heard Trotsky cry out. They found Trotsky, bleeding from a head wound, lying on the floor. Mornard stood over him. The alpenstock, a mountaineer's ice axe was in his hand. One guard started to aim Mornard with the barrel of his pistol but Trotsky said:

"Don't kill him boys, tie him up and make him talk." Trotsky was taken to a hospital where he died the next day.

Mornard's trial ground on for three years. Finally, in 1943, he was sentenced to 19½ years for the killing and six months more for carrying concealed weapons.

Mornard is free to move around the prison. He steadfastly refused to talk to reporters, Mexican or foreign. He was 36 at the time of his arrest.

Difficult Task for Judges

Produce of Sightless Rare Sight To Behold

Visitors to the City Market Saturday were attracted by an eye-catching stall displaying vegetables, fruits and "home cooking."

This is not an unusual sight in the market but this stall seemed different.

And what made it different was that all the vegetables, all the fruit, all the flowers and all the home cooking was the result of work by the blind.

The sightless gardeners had an exceptional display and it was a hard task for judges Alan Littler and Ken Robinson to select winners.

FIRST PRIZES

First prize for potatoes and onions went to Mrs. Brethour and first for tomatoes to Mrs. E. E. Watling.

The home cooking was judged by Miss J. Johnston from the home economic service department of the B.C. Electric.

She placed the bread made by Miss Lugren first. Miss Hicks won for her sweet bread, Mrs. Janet Carr for her cookies and Mrs. E. E. Watling for her cake.

The stall looked most attractive with large baskets of fall flowers and an exceptional display of food and garden produce.

PRIZE PRESENTATION

The Canadian National Institute for the Blind cup and prizes will be presented Wednesday at the White Cane Club meeting.

Foods displayed at the market were on sale and money received will be donated by the sightless to the Canadian Cancer Society.

Mrs. E. Brand was in charge of arrangements and was assisted by Mrs. James Ryan and Mrs. J. D. E. Boyde.

we should work harder toward more potent and new weapons; another that our stockpile of atomic weapons is big enough now, and we should economize on the atomic program.

The A-bomb is a trigger or match for an H-bomb. The terrific heat and pressure generated by an A-bomb are needed to start the hydrogen chain reaction.

The hydrogen reaction works by fusing together the cores of two hydrogen atoms into one helium atom. The helium atom weighs less than the two hydrogen atoms. The lost mass again is released as energy.

POWER PACKING

This principle was known to scientists, including Russians, in the 1920s. But until the A-bomb came along, there was no trigger powerful enough to create hydrogen reaction.

The Eniwetok big blast a year ago is widely interpreted as meaning the same degree of hydrogen reaction was made to work, for a bigger bang on top of the A-bomb. The Russians clearly claim to have achieved a hydrogen reaction.

From eyewitness accounts at Eniwetok, one educated guess is that the H-bomb was the equivalent of exploding 1,000,000 tons of TNT. The original A-bombs dropped on Japan were equivalent to 20,000 tons of TNT. There is also speculation that A-bombs equivalent to 20,000 tons of TNT now have been developed.

Whether the hydrogen device or bomb has reached a stage of being deliverable was left unanswered, too. There is a difference between a test of a reaction and a device which can be put upon an enemy target.

ULTRA-COLD

One problem is that hydrogen is a gas and the H-bomb fuel can't be a gas taking up a huge volume. It could be liquid hydrogen, which means keeping it at a temperature of more than 400 degrees below zero, Fahrenheit. That calls for a bomb equipped with ultra-cold refrigeration or some similar arrangement, and solution of other technical problems.

One guess is that a truly huge H-bomb would occupy an entire bomber, guided by remote control to its target.

In theory an H-bomb could be 1,000 times as powerful as the A-bomb dropped on Japan. Such a bomb would cause blast damage over a 700-square mile area, ranging from heavy destruction in the inner circle of 100 to 50 square miles to lesser degrees of damage in the rest of the area.

A smaller H-bomb of, say, 50 times the power of the A-bombs dropped on Japan, could cause blast damage over 100 square miles, fire and flash burns over 150 square miles, and spray radio-active rays over an area of seven square miles, physicists calculate.

AT STRONG POINTS

Militarily, atomic weapons could effect strategy. Instead of hitting the enemy at weak points, attacks might be launched at strong points, using A-bombs or H-bombs to kill or disable concentration of troops.

Were the Russians bluffing about having succeeded in making a hydrogen reaction go? There seems no reason to doubt them, in light of the AEC announcement that it detected such a reaction in Russia. This presumably was done by checking upon radioactivity in the high winds which blow over the world. The H-bomb reaction creates different radioactivity in the atmosphere than the A-bomb alone.

The general belief is that we have a two to three-year head start over the Soviets. The AEC has made only one reference to production of materials for the H-bomb. That is at the Savannah River plant now nearing completion near Augusta, Ga.

The AEC said only that it would produce materials useful either for A-bombs or H-bombs. This is interpreted to mean it will have atomic reactors to turn out tritium as well as plutonium, and perhaps many other kinds of useful atoms.

Ottawa Planning Women's Bureau

BY TOM GREEN

Colonist Ottawa Correspondent
OTTAWA—Special problems facing women workers are to be dealt with by a new women's bureau to be established shortly in the federal department of labor, it was learned Saturday.

The move to set up the bureau follows requests from several women's organizations which have emphasized that there are special problems facing women in business and industry which should be given special attention.

Officials of the department said they had no special person in mind to head the bureau and advertisements would be placed across the country in the next few days.

The director of the new women's bureau will have a small organization to work under her to begin with. It will be the duty of the new bureau to keep in close touch with national organizations concerned with the problem of employing women.

Among the bureau's functions will be a continuing review of what is being done by government and other agencies in this field, and the establishment of facilities for making the information available.

It is expected the new bureau will play an increasingly important role in the improvement of the status of women in Canada's production program.

The labor department feels that some women in employment are handicapped by common prejudices of employers which are not founded on fact.

Several women's organizations have suggested that it is the responsibility of the federal labor department to study the problems peculiar to women workers and to establish facilities for making results of such studies available to women's groups which might want them.

Girl Found Strangled With Lace

QUESNEL, B.C. (CPI)—Donna Lee Corbett, 13-year-old girl who disappeared from a circus here a week ago, was found Friday, strangled with a shoelace in the bush north of this Cariboo town, RCMP reported Saturday.

She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Corbett and was the subject of a province-wide police alarm.

Her body was found by B. F. Crick, Quesnel sawmill operator, who was bear hunting in the area three miles north of here when he stumbled over the fully-clothed form between two logs.

She was last seen at 11 p.m. September 12 at a circus held in conjunction with a fall fair.

British Jet Pilot Sets New Mark

DUNSFOLD, England (AP)—Squadron Leader Neville Duke, a shy, balding man, who is often in a hurry, claimed another jet record for Britain Saturday.

He jockeyed a crimson swept-wing fighter through stormy skies around a 100-kilometer (62.14-mile) closed circuit course in the quiet Surrey countryside at a speed unofficially clocked at 709.2 miles an hour.

It accepted by the International Aeronautical Federation, this will stand as a world record, bettering the still unofficial mark of 690.118 miles an hour set by U.S. Brig. Gen. J. S. Holtner in an F86D Sabrejet September 2.

Stanley Park Yields Body

VANCOUVER (CPI)—Discovery of the body of an unidentified man in Stanley Park, at Vancouver, Saturday, started a police investigation into the possibility of foul play.

Police gave no indication of the cause of death, but said the man's body apparently had not been in the park for very long. It was discovered near the Seven Sisters, a group of trees in the interior of the park west of Beaver Lake.

The man is described as about 60 years of age, five feet, seven inches tall, weighing 130 pounds, bald with grey hair on the sides, blue-grey eyes, the right thumb amputated at the first joint and the right index finger amputated at the third joint.

He was wearing a brown gabardine top coat, brown worn steel suit, brown striped socks, brown oxford, a white nylon shirt, a dark brown tie and a panama straw hat.

Man Lives With Knife In Head

CLEVELAND, O. (UPI)—Thomas Jones, 34, was stabbed in the temple with a six-inch knife Saturday. After a passer-by failed to extricate the blade, he walked a half mile to the

The wound was inflicted during a fight, police said, between Jones and a 25-year-old man, his assailant fled.

Witnesses tried to withdraw the blade, but it stuck fast in his head. So Jones got up and strolled to the hospital.

Doctors, appalled at the Negro victim's durability, at first failed also to get the knife out. They found his blood pressure and temperature normal. Jones then told the medics that "if you can't get it out, just break it off, doc."

North Korea To Receive Russian Aid

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union announces it is granting war-ravaged North Korea big financial and material aid for reconstruction.

The aid program was announced in a communique issued here after nine days of negotiation between a North Korean delegation headed by Premier Kim Il Sung and Soviet Premier Georgi Malenkov and other Soviet leaders.

The chief announced points of the agreement reached said Russia will:

1. Grant North Korea one billion rubles ($250,000,000) for reconstruction, especially for rebuilding the battered Yalu River hydro-electric plants.
2. Send equipment and material for restoration and reconstruction and technical advisers.
3. Send supplies of consumer goods.
4. Postpone repayment of credit already extended during the war.

The Soviet Union also promised easier terms for repayment of the North Korean debts.

Boy shirts or man-tailored shirts are another aspect of male influence on women's sportswear fashions. These are very tailored and close to the original men's styling, sometimes in men's fabrics like Oxford cloth. Cottons are the favorite always, in stripes, checks, plaids, woven clip dots which lend a more feminine quality to the shirt.

Battle of Britain Heroes Will Be Honored Today

OTTAWA—Battle of Britain Sunday, in honor of the famous "few" fighter pilots who saved Britain in the dark days of 1940, will be observed today.

As the 11th anniversary of the culmination of the historic battle, the day will be marked by church-parades and special services at RCAF units across Canada. Members of the RCAF enemy, won its first victories and suffered its first casualties. Forty-seven Canadian officers and men—three of them with the RCAF and the others serving with the RAF—gave their lives in the Battle of Britain.

HEARING-AID OF THE WEEK

By R. S. H. TYE
Paravox
Photocription

By examining the Audiometer Card and the case history of the patient, Paravox, Inc. is able to produce a hearing-aid that will correct that hearing loss—one that will bring in the tones that ordinarily the patient fails to hear. When the hearing-aid has been made with the correct response curve to meet the hearing requirements of the patient, the performance curve is photographed on special equipment and the photograph is filed away for future reference. This type of fitting is called "Photocription-Service."

We are pleased to announce that our latest model all-transistor Paravox, the "TRANS-ONIC," can now be fitted by photocription. If you are one of those who is hard to fit, come to the Victoria Hearing-Aid Co. at 326 Yarrow Building, 625 Fort Street, have a Paravox TRANS-ONIC made up to suit your individual requirements, and then try it out for several days before purchase. There is no extra charge for this service. This is the hearing-aid that on the average case will operate for less than two dollars per year for batteries.

Provincial Aid to Victoria

AT this juncture it is not possible to tell whether Mr. Percy Wright, as official starter of the main debate in the Legislature, was soliciting provincial aid in a variety of ways for the capital city, or announcing it. Since it is customary for the private member moving the formal resolution of thanks to the lieutenant-governor to be allowed by indirection to disclose the government's intentions, one may assume that what Mr. Wright asked for are in reality plans the government proposes to carry out. On the other hand, Mr. Wright may merely have been using his prerogative to bring to the attention of the House matters in his own riding which he believes call for provincial action.

In either event, most of the items he mentioned with special reference to Victoria and Vancouver Island have important bearing on future development or on improvement of existing public works to keep pace with present-day needs. Mr. Wright spoke strongly in favor of construction of a West Coast road, on which he is assured of much local support regardless of politics. He called for assistance to the City of Victoria from the Dominion and provincial governments in replacement of the rickety Point Ellice Bridge, an arrangement which many believe to be the only way by which a new bridge could be financed in the foreseeable future.

Dealing with smaller scale works, Mr. Wright advocated provincial aid in improving the Gorge waterway, which would be a boon to the whole of Greater Victoria, and in overcoming traffic difficulties at the Fountain Circle. In the case of the latter, it is only proper that the province should contribute substantially to the cost of whatever is to be done. It was a former government which created much of the trouble at the Fountain by the route it selected for the new Island and Patricia Bay highways without consulting the municipalities, and it was a little too much to expect the city to stand the whole cost of remedying a situation which it had no part in causing.

In recommending all these projects, it is to be hoped that the Victoria member was speaking for the government rather than to it.

Sentimentalizing Over the Sons

AT a safe distance from the region harassed by the Sons of Freedom, a prairie newspaper has taken the British Columbia government to task for its handling of the current disturbances. "In all the publicity about them there never has been a hint of immorality or of criminal intent," it says. "And yet the other day 144 of them . . . were arrested and charged with contributing to juvenile delinquency, and lodged in jail. What a farce the law can be."

This rebuke wouldn't be worth bothering about if it were not for the fact that it reflects the kind of woolly thinking about the Sons of Freedom that has abetted them in their acts of defiance all these years. No immorality? Let's look at the record. The demonstrators are charged with parading in the nude (that isn't the precise wording, but a simplification of the indictment) and with contributing to juvenile delinquency. The ingredients of these charges are that in protest against a government edict that they must obey the law regarding sending their children to school, Freedomites of both sexes and all ages stripped themselves to the skin and exhibited themselves thus in front of non-Doukhobor children as they were coming out of school. That, from the B.C. government's point of view, was the last straw.

Maybe the Sons don't regard such a display before innocent children as immoral, and maybe the prairie newspaper (which was not present) doesn't either. But the laws of Canada regard public nudity with deliberate intent as immoral, and it is the duty of all governments to uphold the law. If anyone wants to quarrel with what the authorities have been driven to do in this province (goodness knows they tried hard enough to avoid making arrests), let him quarrel instead with the Criminal Code. Let him, if he can, get the laws about nudity and immorality wiped off the books so that everyone who feels so inclined may stroll stark naked through the streets of Victoria, or Toronto, or Winnipeg. How would those given to sentimentalizing from a distance over the Freedomites like that—in their own home towns?

A Warning To Be Heeded

THE Chamber of Commerce is doing a valuable service in warning housewives to be on guard against fast-talking door-to-door salesmen without proper credentials. Like most cities Victoria has had its share of glib operators who move in and in a whirlwind campaign persuade householders to buy this or that product or have this or that service performed on terms that may seem easy but too often boomerang on the householder.

In the present instance the warning is issued in connection with vacuum cleaners. It could be and has been some other commodity or service—books, roofing, chimney repairs and the like. Many Victoria homes have experienced disillusion at the hands of strange salesmen with seemingly attractive offers, so many one might conclude skepticism alone would keep harpies away. Yet dubious characters are always hanging on the fringe of honest and respectable marketing.

Householders, especially housewives who bear the brunt of such facile deception, should take the Chamber of Commerce's warning to heart. They can do so easily. Most reputable firms and products are well known. Where the product or service is not familiar or backed by satisfactory credentials, caution should prevail. A call to the chamber will resolve all doubts: the telephone number is E 7191.

THE ELECTIONS ACT

Sir,—It is hoped that the legislative assembly now in session will refrain from tampering with the Election Act. The will of the people is true democracy's goal. Premier Bennett has stated that his government is a movement of the people. The old order has served its day and generation; to return to the old system is a retrograde step.

What is needed is a campaign of education, starting in the schools. Intelligent use of the franchise should not be left to a few men running for office. The past haphazard methods have only served to breed seeds of distrust and "what's the use of voting anyhow" attitudes. The sanctity of the franchise should not involve property rights, class legislation of the most ruthless type.

A government for, by and of the people, demands a clean sweep of all the stupid prejudices that now enfold us.

A. CAROLYN BAYFIELD,

777 Blanshard Street, Victoria, B.C.

LIQUOR REFORM

Sir, There was a letter in the Colonist by Mr. Cadwallader on Liquor Reform. To be crudely honest no government can put a lid on Hell, hard as it may try. If we acknowledge this and try by degrees to educate the people to normality, a malignant growth that cannot be cured must be endured. Violent restrictions are not the answer.

In foreign countries where wine and spirituous liquors are an ordinary beverage, there is a minimum of drunkenness. Even in the Old Country most people take their hard liquor with soda or water; they know how to drink. But in Canada and the U.S.A. the habit is to take it neat—straight from the bottle. One reason for this is, that the drunkard has to pay five to six dollars a bottle. Prior to 1914 that same bottle, and 20% stronger, cost 85 to 90 cents for Scotch whisky. In prohibition times when people were allowed one bottle a day, anyone could sell their bottle at double the price; thus creating a vicious side-line.

In my opinion the whole liquor business is a mismanaged racket. Confirmed drinkers will never be stopped by regulations. If they cannot get legitimate liquor they will get illegitimate liquor despite the cost to themselves. Remember that most human beings are just children with a false front. Try to teach them the way to moderation.

BATTLE OF BRITAIN

Sir,—May I say thank you to Tom Taylor for his gentle reminder of the Battle of Britain.

How well I recall those long summer days when the torch of freedom burned feebly, kept alight only by the superhuman endurance of a small group of tense, eager-eyed youths, many of whom failed to return.

The poignancy of that momentous battle will never be forgotten. In Britain, at that time we waited, sitting quietly in small groups round our radio sets for the score of enemy planes brought down that day, and we wept bitterly and silently when we remembered our own boys, as we called them.

All honor to the few who are left, and may the toast be "Per Ardua ad Astra".

THE WRIGHT CASE

Sir,—As an erstwhile employee of the Corporation of the City of Victoria, of some years standing, I have followed with great interest all opinions and editorials in The Daily Colonist pertaining to Mr. Wright's position and possibly through ignorance, fail to understand why the "legal" ruling should have been so difficult to arrive at, probably because so much legal phraseology is shrouded in ambiguity. If so, are not the city by-laws due for an overhaul?

I add my sincere well-wishes to those of my friends at the city hall, and do not wish Mr. Wright success, as this is bound to follow anything in which he engages. Cream always rises to the top!

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

I WAS at school myself when Billy Bunter first appeared on the literary scene, although not like him at a school called public, meaning private.

Billy, as some of my readers will remember, was a nasty little bloke, always stuffing himself at the tuck shop and not above sneaking to the masters. That's what got him into trouble with his schoolmates. There never was an issue of the Magnet that didn't ring with "Yarrah! Beast! Wow!" (from Billy), and "Ha! Ha! Ha!" (from Harry Wharton and Co.)

Fat little Billy wasn't the hero then, but he seems to be now. I believe the Magnet is no longer published and perhaps that's just as well. If Bunter knew he was the subject of an article, with pictures, in a large North American magazine, the Remove would never hold him.

Thirty years and more Billy romped in the Magnet, ageless. He might have been buried in a glacier for all the effect time had on him. His pals, although they weren't very pally to him, were of course equally eternal. And none of them ever advanced a grade.

Looking back now it doesn't seem to me that initially Bunter was more than a character prop. When Frank Richards began his tales of Greyfriars School it was Harry Wharton on whom we penny-dreadful fans centred our worship. He was our beau ideal. Mind you he was a bit off color at first. He didn't want to go to Greyfriars and right off the bat he ran into the fists of the bully, Bulstrode, and that improved neither his temper nor his looks.

However, he reformed. He learned to box too and there came a day when, it being proper that the righteous should triumph, he gave Bulstrode a black eye. Thereafter he was the leader of the Remove and shared a study with that staunch little gentleman, Frank Nugent, and I forget the name of the third of the trio.

Bunter never changed a lick. He was always being walloped for his misdeeds, always poking his nose where it didn't belong, always greedy, always a little prevaricator.

Funny the ways of fame, for now Bunter is a public idol over in Britain. He's on TV and he inhabits a comic strip. I think I read a while ago that a movie is being made about him, so you see he has reached the pinnacle of success.

He is immortal, apparently. The Magnet is no more but Billy has had 12 books written about him. Wharton is still around too, of course, and Quelch (the Remove master) and Loder and Wingate and all the other Greyfriars boys, good and bad.

I think I liked Tom Merry and Co. best, the Co. being Blake and Redfern and Fatty Wynn and Arthur Augustus D'Arcy, etc. As some of you know, they filled the pages of the Gem and were at another school, St. Jim's. What rivalries there were! And what escapades! I lapped them up in youthful ecstasy.

Frank Richards wrote the Magnet stories and Martin Clifford the Gem stories. He is the same man, now over 80, but like his fat little Billy still going strong. Under other pen-names he created Herlock Sholmes, Jimmy Silver and Bessie Bunter, but I knew them not. I wonder about Bessie, though.

But it's her brother who is the prize. There is a fan club in London devoted to him, authors, schoolmasters, civil servants and the like, probably every one of them with stacks of old Magnets and Gems stored at home to remind them of their penny-dreadful days.

Actually, you know, Billy Bunter was pretty dreadful. I said "Ha! Ha! Ha!" myself every time he cried "Ow! Beast! Ooogh!" I never dreamed he would make TV, even allowing that I never thought then about TV. I can understand the comics, for he was the fun foil of the Magnet, but a movie!

Now if it had been Get There Gunter, who was a go-getter of another school in another magazine. But he wasn't Frank Richards' brain-child and perhaps his creator has gone the way of all flesh.

All of them were a merry (small) company in those naive days.

International Commentary . . .

Japan Gaining in Trade Drive

By J. L. HAYS, From London

NOW that the war guns are silent in Korea, the trade guns—directed against Britain—are opening up in Japan.

Coming cuts in America's military expenditure in Japan will force Japanese industrialists to check every export outlet.

With the U.S. government still blocking "full-speed-ahead" trade with Red China, the Japanese inevitably will turn to sterling outlets in general and those in the Middle East (where restrictions on Japanese trading don't exist) in particular.

British firms between Suez and the Persian Gulf already are running up against stiffening Japanese competition—mostly in cotton textiles, pottery and light machinery lines. It has played its part in the reduction of Britain's world-wide export earnings by a whopping $294,000,000 in the first six months of this year.

Squads of well-disciplined, neatly suited, smiling little Japanese littered with portable typewriters and brief cases, have been shuttling between Teheran and Cairo, Damascus and Istanbul for months now. Their "progress report" reads well:

An agreement signed with Syria: 5,000 tons of cotton against Japanese machinery, cotton goods and electrical equipment.

Drift agreements under consideration with Iraq, Turkey and the Lebanon: more Japanese cotton goods against local raw materials.

Negotiations proceeding with Egypt: the Japanese will take cotton worth $28,000,000 if the Egyptians can rustle up the necessary foreign currency to buy "a satisfactory quantity" of cotton goods (again) and machine tools in return.

And with Saudi Arabia: the Japanese are anxious to rack up sales of toys, fans, parasols, electrical goods and bicycles against the $11,200,000 they spend here each year on oil.

In an area ruffled by fierce currents of xenophobic nationalism—and in which the tag "Made in Britain" is just as likely to inspire catcalls as respect—the low prices and firm delivery dates mentioned by the Japanese make quite an impression.

Small wonder, then, that businessmen rate the oil-rich territories of the Middle East—places such as Iraq, Saudi Arabia and the Persian Gulf sheikdoms, all swimming with wealth—as likely "priority targets" should the Japanese ever be tempted to revive their dumping tactics of the 1930's.

But dumping or no dumping this time, the Japanese mean business. They have got away to their usual flying start—with wages averaging 21 cents an hour (for a 50-hour week, incidentally) compared with a British average of nearer 56 cents.

Already the danger signals are flying—Japan already is the world's leading rayon-exporting country. Her pure cotton yarn production in June soared to a record 191,000 bales—13,000 more than the previous best in January, 1952.

In West Africa, Japanese cotton prints are already selling for 28 cents a yard—seven cents cheaper than Lancashire can manage. The lower house of the Japanese Diet has approved a bill calling for revival of the powerful (and mass-marketing) cartels—including the big three: Mitsui, Mitsubishi and Sumitomo.

Of course, the Japanese are not handicapped by the priority claims of a rearmament program. Not that the Japanese are free of all worries, of course. Their 1952 trade deficit was the highest since the war (exports down by 6 per cent) and vast stockpiling of such sterling raw materials as wool, copper and rubber has run down their sterling balances from $378,000,000 to $38,000,000 in the last 12 months.

But the record shows clearly enough that it is in just such adversity that Japanese exporting firms fight hardest. And smile widest. It also shows that the best counter-attack in an area like the Middle East—where quality is not always such a hot selling point as low prices and prompt deliveries—is to outsell the Japanese. To fight even harder. Smile even wider, while there is time to smile at all.

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

I HAVE just had a tussle with a laundry, in which I came off second best. To this laundry, which is a model of efficiency as far as washing and pressing and packaging are concerned, I foolishly sent one of my most precious sport shirts. Three years ago, it was a new and garish garment of a rather offensive-henna color. It was the kind of shirt your wife and those others who have to live nearest to you gently suggest that you give to charity. But as time went by, and the shirt was exposed to the sun on many a fishing trip and many a day in the open both foul and fair, and after it had been washed by sundry laundries in various parts of the country as well as at home, not to mention a couple of washings it got from me in the cold waters of lake or stream, and with such soap as was available, this shirt took on a beautiful color. It was neither tan nor pink, but a kind of shade you will see in Etruscan pottery or among the better preserved paintings and hieroglyphics of Ancient Egypt. It was a peach of a shirt. Unique.

Maybe a little tattered, but loved. Most men hug some trivial possession like this. Anyway, when the laundry came back, my shirt, my lovely old faded shirt, was missing. I immediately telephoned the laundry and informed them of the shortage and impressed upon them the urgency of finding it. They could lose two or even three of the other shirts in the batch, the white ones, the blue ones. They could lose all the underwear, the handkerchiefs. But in heaven's name, not this one.

Well, they never did find it. I went down and interviewed the general manager. I wrote to the president of the laundry. They let me go through the drying room and the packaging room in the forlorn hope that it might have got hung up on a nail or something, or had been swept into a corner. All-in-vain.

The laundry thereupon most formally asked me to declare its value. How could I declare its value? When new, it had been a homely and horrible article, the bane of everybody's eyes but mine. It must have been a bargain, even when I bought it, so my friends say.

But its value? It took three years of joyous life to create that old shirt, to bring it to its patina, its bloom, its lustre. The matter is ended; but I would like laundries to realize that they handle, in their cold commercial way, some things that are beyond price.

From Files of The Daily British

Colonist of September, 1866

By G. E. MORTIMORE

VANCOUVER Island no longer had a government of its own. The Imperial Parliament had passed an Act of Union between the Island and the Mainland colony of British Columbia—an act which would merge the two colonies whether they liked it or not.

The Island's legislative assembly and council had been swept away. Full power lay in the hands of B.C. Governor Seymour, who was on his way to the united colonies.

The Mainland seemed to like the move, but a strong element on Vancouver Island opposed it. Even some of those who had fought for union now began to panic at the sight of their objective.

The Evening-Telegraph, much to the Colonist's scorn, went so far as to suggest that people leave the colony and settle in the United States. Leonard McClure, editor of the Telegraph, called a meeting, purportedly to discuss reciprocal trading with the U.S.A., but actually to gain support for a movement to annex Vancouver Island to its big southern neighbor.

There was an audience of 600. Mr. McClure "was received by a fearful storm of hisses, mingled with applause. Cries of 'Downing Street,' 'delegate,' 'office hunter,' etc., resounded through the house."

"Mr. McClure proceeded in his favorite style to depreciate the resources of this Colony and to predict that in six months half the people of it would have fled," the Colonist reported.

"A little yaller dorg," he mounted the stage and set up such a furious howl at the speaker, that the chairman was compelled to take him—the dorg!—on his knee. . . . Mr. McClure continued that there was no hope for us since our representative institutions were done away with. . . . Her Majesty's government cared very little for us. A great uproar here arose, during which the terms 'traitor' and 'toidy' were freely bandied. . . . and disputes arose in different parts of the house between individuals. . . .

"Eight men, the 'yaller dorg,' and a black bottle advanced at once to the front of the stage, and attempted to say something. The 'dorg' only succeeded in making himself heard, when he was instantly muzzled by Mr. Cuthbert and held close prisoner for the rest of the evening."

The meeting "dissolved" with three cheers for the Queen, but after the loyal members of the audience, including the chairman, had left, a new chairman was appointed and the rump meeting "passed (by a narrow majority) a resolution calling for annexation to the United States."

First Symphony of Winter To Be Given on October 5

BY MAURY GWYNNE

The music of Schumann, Schubert and Rossini will be featured in the first concert of the Victoria Symphony Orchestra winter series beginning October 5.

Under the direction of Hans Gadow, the orchestra goes into its 13th season with an impressive list of guest artists for the eight scheduled concerts.

The winter series opens on Monday, October 5 at the Royal Theatre and closes with the eighth concert on Monday, March 29, 1954.

GUEST ARTISTS

Guest artists tentatively scheduled to appear during the year include pianists Robin Wood, Randolph Hokanson and John Knight. Concert Master Clifford Evans will appear as guest artist for one of the concerts and violinist Lionello Porzani at another.

Also to appear as a guest artist will be clarinetist Stanley McCartney.

For the opening program, Mr. Gruber has tentatively chosen two symphonies, an overture and a ballet suite.

Robert Schumann's Spring Symphony No. 1 and the Schubert Unfinished Symphony are both on the program to date. Also listed are the Semiramide Overture by Rossini and the Les Femmes de Bonheur by Scarlatti-Tomasini.

Public reaction to the coming season has been good, symphony society officials say. More than 1,000 season subscriptions have already been sold, but season subscribers have only until the week of September 21 to choose their seats. Single ticket sales begin on September 28.

The work of six Canadian composers will be heard at the first concert of the winter series at Carnegie Hall, New York, opening on October 16, conductor Leopold Stokowski has announced.

CANADIAN WORKS

The committee on selections, who announced last spring that Canadian works would be featured, has chosen six compositions from more than 200 submitted.

The committee, headed by Mr. Stokowski, is composed of Sir Ernest MacMillan, Claude Champagne, Wilfred Pelletier, Boyd Neel, William Schuman, Henry Cowell and Walter Piston.

The program, the committee has indicated, is subject to change, but should consist of Colin McPhee's "Tabou Tabouhan," Françoise Moré's "Antiphone," Pierre Mercure's "Fantomme," Clermont Pélipin's "Guernica," Healey Willan's "Coronation Suite" and Alexander Broth's "Violin Concerto."

Commenting on the selection, Mr. Stokowski said: "If Canadian music has been unrecognized by some of us in the United States it is our mistake and loss. The music Canada has to offer ranks with the best in this country and possibly the best that any country in the world is producing today."

The lively British comedy, "The Children Hundreds," recently enjoyed by thousands through the film version, will go on stage at the Tolem Theatre Monday night at 8.30.

This is an entertaining satire that takes a good poke at the tried and true things of England—tradition, aristocracy, politics and love.

JACK DROY IN LEAD

In the lead role of the "ever-so-correct" butler is Jack Droy, who dominates the play with his part in a dastardly plot with the hero, a woolly-minded and dense young lord played by Stuart Baker.

In the roles of mother and father are Sam Payne, as the Earl of Lister, whose chief concern in life is the rabbits that eat his flower beds. Verlie Coote, in the mother role, spends her time worrying about ducks.

Playing the American visitor and fiancé of the young lord is Muriel Ontkean. Rosemary Malkin, who took the bored "London type" in "Jane Steps Out," is back to play the role of the horsey cousin, Lady Caroline.

As Bessie will be versatile Daphne Goldrick, and guest artist Bud Cumming is featured as the Labor MP who defeats the hero in the general election of 1945.

The comedy is directed by Peter Manning, who took the role of Detective Rough in "Gaslight" last week.

"Children Hundreds" offers top-drawer entertainment for everyone in the family and, in particular, budding politicians.

Another Vancouver actor, Neil McLeod, 23, has joined the Tolem Theatre cast. Mr. McLeod signed a six-month contract with the company last week.

International concert comedienne, Anna Russell, will appear for the first time in Victoria this winter with the Famous Artists series.

NOW ON BROADWAY

Now appearing on Broadway with her own revue, Miss Russell has created a sensation everywhere she has appeared.

Satirizing the solemn, the pompous, the pretensions, seen too often on the concert stage, Miss Russell's press notices are now the envy of the people she mischievously exposes.

A woman of many talents, she writes, composes and arranges all her own material.

Her own background is almost as comic as the roles she plays on the stage.

London-born, she was the first daughter for many generations in a prominent military family. Somehow she did not take too kindly to the life of a courtier.

She soon grew bored with chatty teas and small talk so entered the Royal Academy of London and became an accomplished singer. In the same period of training she also became an adequate pianist, composer and arranger.

After taking part in the Grand Coronation Concert of George VI, Anna Russell got her own show on the BBC, and later joined an opera company. But in the heavy, morbid roles of the opera her sense of the ridiculous got the better of her and in high dudgeon, she was "released" by the company officials.

From there her next step was into comedy where she was an immediate success and has kept that success alive ever since.

Dorothy Fairhurst, 26, 54 Quadra, is looking for entertainers to form a concert party for invalids and elderly people.

VOLUNTEER BASIS

The party will be organized on a strictly volunteer basis with satisfaction of seeing the enjoyment of the audience as the only reward, she says.

Entertainers interested are asked to get in touch with Dorothy by mail. She is in need of an instrumentalist, a dancer and a comedian.

British Columbia singers are preparing their repertoires in preparation for the preliminary auditions to be held for the CBC's French network singing contest, Our Future Stars.

The contest offers the winners $500 cash and a 26-week engagement. It returns to the air this fall for the sixth consecutive year.

Contestants between the age of 20 and 30, and Canadians should send their applications to Our Future Stars, Box 6,000, Montreal.

Applicants successful in the preliminary auditions will sing on one of the 29 programs in Montreal, and semi-finalists will be heard on five subsequent broadcasts.

Genoa Waterfront Flooded by Rain

GENOA, Italy (AP)—Genoa's entire waterfront residential section was under two or more feet of water Saturday after two days of torrential rains.

Homes were flooded, bridges were washed away, shops reported hundreds of thousands of dollars' damage, and scores of parked automobiles were submerged. Dockside housewives, holding bottles of scarce drinking water, were carried to their homes on the shoulders of firemen.

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Official sources said Saturday India has accepted an offer by the United Nations command to airlift 600 more Indian troops to Korea to reinforce prisoner guards in the neutral zone. Globemaster planes are expected to take the additional troops from Calcutta to Korea.

NOTICE OF MEETING

Lost Dog Owner Sought

Residents along West Saanich Road have a small mystery on their hands.

They are wondering who is the owner of a dog which stayed outside the East-Road telephone office for three straight days last week.

The dog was finally picked up by the Central Saanich police when residents complained that the animal hadn't been eating.

The dog is believed to be an Alsatian and is well-groomed and friendly, residents report. It is wearing a leather collar without a license.

France To Give Austria Break

PARIS (AP)—France will no longer ask Austria to pay for keeping French occupation troops after next January 1, the French foreign ministry announced Friday night.

The chief is suffering from a swollen jaw. So far doctors haven't been able to diagnose the ailment.

It is believed the swelling is a result of an ulcerated tooth which was extracted in Le Pas, Man., during the chief's recent wrestling tour.

Pierced-Ear Fad Sweeping City

BY ROY PARRETT

Pierced ears are the newest Victoria fad. Teen-agers and adults alike are having their ears pierced so that they can wear the latest types of novelty earrings.

The practice had dropped off in recent years. Recently, inspired by national magazine girls and women have revived the fashion in a big way.

The piercing can be done by the family doctor or by some local jewelers. The operation takes only a minute and involves no real discomfort, Victoria girls report.

BEDSIDE MANNER

"You don't have to be a surgeon to pierce ears," S. C. Johns, local jeweler reported yesterday. "but a good bedside-manner helps. Most women are a little nervous about taking the final step."

Women seldom walk boldly in and ask to have the job done. Mr. Johns explained. They come in, look around, ask questions about ear-piercing and when reassured, take the final plunge.

"Actually the piercing doesn't hurt as much as a tight screw-type earring does," Mr. Johns stated. "Most women laugh and say, 'is that all, when the job is done.'"

SHARP POINT

The tiny hole is made by the sharp point of the earring. The jeweler places a cork block behind the ear and pushes the point through the lobe. The point is then cut off.

The earrings come in two styles. Some women prefer the "sleeper" type. They are plain and have no projecting hooks or catches. As the name indicates, the wearer doesn't have to remove them at night.

A more popular type is the shepherd's hook. It will accommodate pendants and other types of novelty-wear-to-grace milady's ears.

The hook-type earrings are very practical, jewelers state. It is almost impossible to lose earrings, once the ears are pierced.

NAVY MEN, TOO

Women aren't the only customers who have their ears pierced. Mr. Johns' son Ray said Saturday. Men of the Royal Canadian Navy believe in the age-old practice of having the left ear pierced with a narrow band of gold.

A steady trickle of navy men patronize Mr. Johns' earring department. They require special treatment, too. Ray states. Sailors are just as coy as the ladies about getting their ear pierced.

A navy man was bold as brass about having his earring installed at a local store. "It's disgusting for a new kind of secret ship," he explained to the amused jeweler.

The tough sailor was the only customer who had to have a whiff of smelling salts after the minor operation, the merchant noted.

Mathews Feels Optimistic Over Coming Chest Drive

Optimism for the success of the forthcoming Community Chest campaign was expressed Saturday by Ralph B. Mathews, Gladwell, prominent city businessman.

Every night during the coming week, Mr. Gladwell will hold training clinics for his team captains and volunteer workers.

Mr. Mathews said there has never been a more important time for the organization of the Community Chest.

An industrial-commercial campaign will start September 29 the forthcoming campaign under the direction of Harry Gladwell, prominent city businessman.

Every night during the coming week, Mr. Gladwell will hold training clinics for his team captains and volunteer workers.

Mr. Mathews said there has never been a more important time for the organization of the Community Chest.

BOOKS

"Uncle Pogo So-So Stories," the title of Walt Kelly's latest book about a possum who will need no introduction to Daily Colonist readers.

The book full of humorous verse and hi-jinks, was published quietly in June, promoted only slightly, and has been on the best seller list for a solid 15 weeks.

About 175,000 copies of the volume have been sold to date, indicating that "Uncle Pogo So-So Stories" will at least duplicate or even surpass the quarter-million mark—not bad for a comic strip for intellectuals only!

A New York Times Book Review sleuth, pouring over a copy of a Spanish newspaper, found a French title high on the best-seller list. It sounded vaguely familiar.

It read: "Triomphe de vos soucis, vivez, que diable!"

After brief but intense concentration he realized that it was Dale Carnegie's "How to Stop Worrying and Start Living."

"What a triumph of translation," the sleuth rhapsodized. "Who could be less French than Dale Carnegie and yet what title could be more French than 'Overcome Your Troubles, Live, What the Devil!'"

Parents of diminutive radio fans may be interested to hear that "Baby Bee's Second Book," full of characters created for the CBC's Small Types Club, conducted by Byng Whittaker, is on sale here—McClelland & Stewart are the publishers.

Casting back to Colonial times of 50 years ago, readers will find a book column by Lady Jeanne deploring the waning interest of the young in Scott and Dickens.

In her 1903 column Lady Jeanne points out that although British novels are at least "pure" in comparison to Italian and French novels, there is nothing more harmful than "a too rapacious love of novel reading, which, if given way to, is absolutely dangerous."

"Inveterate novel readers unfit themselves for any other kind of reading... Such a relaxation and pleasure need not be grudged to those from whom the rosy days and love of youth have passed away... but to the younger generation it is a sort of mental drug-drinking which obtains possession of its victims and destroys the power of concentration."

"We should not be prodigal with our reading or waste our time in what gives us pleasure or amusement only, but no lasting good."

"The sources of information are endless, the variety so manifold... that the reader should hasten to profit by them and read while he is young, leaving the field of romance and fancy to the days of later years, when the poetry of life is more precious and better appreciated."

Fortunately when Lady Jeanne was writing, comic books had never been heard of.

A California critic has noticed that "he's never heard anyone say 'that book should be banned because it might be damaging to me.'"

It's always someone else the censors want to protect, he says.

"The Campaign Speeches of Adlai E. Stevenson" is a best seller in England, another indication to back up the Democratic leader's off-the-cuff joke during a recent London press conference: "I must have run in the wrong country."

Award Trophy For Citizenship

Mrs. L. D. Hall, regent, welcomed two new members, Mrs. Peacock and Mrs. Irwin, to Esquimalt Chapter IODE at the recent meeting.

The Creelman trophy for citizenship at Lampson Street school, Grade 8, was awarded to Anne McAndrews with Ronald Smith winning the runner up prize of $10. It was voted to send $10 to the Golden Jubilee Scholarship fund.

Food parcels were sent to adopted families overseas and flowers taken to the DVA hospital it was reported.

Mrs. Hall was named delegate to the semi-annual meeting of the Provincial chapter to be held in West Vancouver on October 15.

Writer Makes North Seem Pleasant Spot

"The Wind and The Cariboo," by Erik Munsterhjelm (Macmillan). Should any of the readers of this book have had any desire to become trappers and live off the land of northern Canada, this delightful book will drive them wild.

The author, a Scandinavian, working in scorching California, smells pine needles and see real snow once more.

So he packed up his hot climate job and headed north. He got to Edmonton in the middle of winter, revelled in the wonderful frigid weather, then looked for something to do.

In the course of his looking he meets another of his race and they decide to try a hand at trapping.

From there on the book becomes a diary of life in the very cold and very beautiful north country of B.C. and Alberta. He tells of shooting as many caribou as he wants in a year, casting a fish line and spoon into northern rivers and coming up with tremendous trout, too many to eat.

In short he gives a most graphic and exciting narration of his years of trapping as anyone could ask for. The hard bit-ter cold becomes pleasant, the tremendous physical strains become all fun under his pen.

MAKES NO BONES
Munsterhjelm makes no bones about the rigors of the northland, but he loves it and imparts some of the same feeling to the reader.

Into all this he rings some of the almost fictional character descriptions that are always drifting out to the cities.

Men who spend two years alone in the north, make a killing on fur, then blow the whole works in two weeks' fun in Edmonton, were constant companions of the author. From them he wrung tall tales and not a little amazing truth about the "old north."

"The Wind and The Cariboo" is one of the most entertaining and most informative documentary books to be published in a long time about Canada's northland and the men who live there.

There was, for instance, the case of Cash, Wheeler and Bissett overdures in a Grauman Avenger over the waters of the old Spanish Main. They had set out from the carrier on a routine navigational exercise. This was in 1944.

All through the dark night, they worried about them. And then, in the bright sunlight of the next afternoon, back they soared over the flight deck escorted by a brace of U.S. fighters.

Nonchalantly, they reported that their instruments had broken down; that they tried to stumble on the ship; that they grew a little concerned because of low ceilings and diminishing fuel; that they had to talk to "the Man upstairs"; that they found a hole in the cloud deck, shot through it, and landed on a Cuban airstrip.

Then they made the whole warroom envious with their Rabelaisian tales of Latin American nocturnal activity. But they had been very close to disaster and to death.

Per Ardua ad Astra—through adversity to the stars!

When Winston Churchill lifted his bulky figure so as to address the British House of Commons on June 4, 1940, he said:

"The great French Army was very largely, for the time being, cast back and disturbed by the onrush of a few thousand armored vehicles. May it not also be that the cause of civilization itself will be defended by the skill and devotion of a few thousand airmen?"

But the French Army was not cast back and defeated, and old Henri-Philippe Petain begged the Germans for an armistice. Thus it was held that the old railway coach, which had been the scene of the Hun surrender in 1918, was trundled out of its museum and shunted into the line.

An anti-American sentiment which prevailed in France two years ago, has not diminished, she observed. This sentiment she explained, probably results from the fact that no one likes people to whom they have to show gratitude, and the seeming inability of Americans to understand things which aren't American.

Following completion of her studies at the Sorbonne, Dr. Downes traveled through southwest France, visiting the Basque country and the Bordeaux district. She then visited small towns on the Riviera, between Nice and Marseilles.

She went to England in August and traveled the countryside by car.

She flew back to Victoria from Edinburgh, Scotland, where she attended the annual Edinburgh festival. This year's festival, she said, is a great success. Prominent artists come from all over Europe to sing, play or perform in the festival, making it one of the most impressive and biggest events of the year in Britain.

Dr. Downes has studied in Victoria, Vancouver, Toronto, and completed three years of post-graduate study in France.

OAK BAY STUDENT
She attended Oak Bay High School, where her father was principal at the time, and Victoria College. She graduated from UBC with first class honors and later was awarded the degree of MA there. She lectured at UBC and in Toronto before being appointed in 1951 to the faculty of Victoria College.

A PADRE IN PRINT

BY REV. WILLIAM HILLS

Last night, I had the good fortune to be amongst those ex-air force officers who celebrated the "Battle of Britain." Why these good fellows wanted an old retired naval chaplain in their midst beggars any imagination.

Perchance they thought that the spirit which made them monarchs of the air, was also making them victors over the baronies of age and domestic bliss.

If that was their purpose, they were right on the target! And yet, this should not have been surprising. One of my fondest recollections is the education I received at the hands of the Fleet Air Arm whilst we sailed together as shipmates.

There was, for instance, the case of Cash, Wheeler and Bissett overdures in a Grauman Avenger over the waters of the old Spanish Main. They had set out from the carrier on a routine navigational exercise. This was in 1944.

All through the dark night, they worried about them. And then, in the bright sunlight of the next afternoon, back they soared over the flight deck escorted by a brace of U.S. fighters.

Officials Plan Workshop Study

A leadership and group development workshop will be presented September 23, 24 and 25 at the Youth Training Centre of the University of British Columbia, it was announced Friday.

The workshop is planned for parents, Dr. Clifford Carl showed a new government film, "Land of Tomorrow," depicting the Peace River area.

Victoria West will hold the first meeting of the season Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium. Mrs. E. Banfield announced. Teachers, the district nurse and school dentist will be present.

Mrs. E. Tucker presided at the season's first meeting of the Oak Bay High School PTA. Principal C. A. Gibbard spoke on curricular system, and educational films were shown by Clarence H. Ferris.

The next executive meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. T. Kay, 3010 Larkdown Road, on October 1, at 8 p.m.

CO-OPERATION PROJECT
The three-way workshop is presented by the extension department of the UBC in co-operation with the B.C. Parent Teacher Federation.

Mrs. William Irwin, president of the B.C. division, Canadian Mental Health Association, Miss Rosamund Ross, nutrition consultant, metropolitan health committee will be among guest consultants.

Fee for the workshop is $2 a person. PTA groups in Greater Victoria, meanwhile, have begun, or soon will, new plans for the school year. The annual meeting of Esquimalt PTA was held in Lampson Street school on Tuesday. Mrs. E. McMillan being installed as president.

Other officers installed were R. Reeve, vice-president; Mrs. E. Faulkes, secretary; K. Roach, treasurer. Mrs. L. Murray, president of Victoria and district PTA council, installed the new officers.

N. Forbes introduced teachers on the staff of the elementary school. Future meetings will be held the second Wednesday of each month.

Oaklands PTA will hold its first meeting of the season Monday at 8 p.m., with installation of officers and a quiz program.

Margaret Jenkins and Bank Street PTA met for the first time of the new season last Monday, president Mrs. R. B. McMicking presiding.

School principal G. Love introduced the teachers to the

BY GRANTLAND RICE

This next world series will feature two players of almost equal caliber who rate high. Their careers have run side by side for a long time. Along with being two fine ballplayers you might add, if you cared to, they are about as nice a pair as one could meet along the highway. Their names are Harold (Pee-wee) Reese and Phil (Scooter) Rizzuto.

Pee-wee Reese came to the Dodgers from Louisville in 1940. He served three years in the U.S. Navy in 1943, 1944 and 1945. Phil Rizzuto came to the Yankees from Kansas City in 1941. He also served three years in the navy, the same that Reese served.

Reese is now completing 11 years with the Dodgers and Rizzuto 10 years with the Yankees.

In his nine previous years Rizzuto has batted at 279, while Reese in 10 years has hit for .269. However, Reese in those first 10 years drove in 602 runs while Rizzuto in nine years sent 479 across the plate from his busy bat.

Oddly enough, this season they are still close, with Rizzuto batting .281 and Reese .268 in the fading days of 1953.

Over a 10-year stretch they have traveled neck and neck, two vital factors in their teams' successes. One wonders what would have happened if the Red Sox had taken over Reese years ago when they bought Louisville. You could probably add at least two more pennants to the Red Sox list.

How do these almost identical ballplayers compare in world series play?

Reese, in four world series—all against the Yankees—has batted .297. Rizzuto has been in seven world series, where his mark has been only .235.

Phil has outlived Reese through the season but Reese's world series average is much higher, though in three fewer baseball classics.

Reese has driven in 12 runs in four world series, Rizzuto seven runs in seven series.

The Yankees and the Dodgers have won 14 pennants between them since this pair of shortstops arrived over a decade ago. It is impossible to tell how many of these pennant-winning years have been due to the brilliant work, the fine and timely hitting, that Reese and Rizzuto delivered season after season.

There is one spot, however, where they move well apart. Phil, the scooter, has had a better break financially. Since joining the Yankees in 1941, he is now about to engage in his eighth world series. He has collected the winner's end of the seven he has already played, totaling more than $40,000. If he takes the winner's end of this series Phil will be almost $50,000 ahead, which shows you what it means to a ballplayer on hooking up with the Yankees in place of other clubs.

Pee-wee has bumped into no such mint as Rizzuto has known. But his four series have netted him more than $11,000, and, if he can bag the winner's end of this next one, it will lift him close to the $20,000 mark. Whether he will finish on the winner's side remains to be seen. Certainly he has a magnificent chance.

Junior Boxla For City Title Carded Today

Oak Bay meets Esquimalt in the deciding game of the best-of-five series for the city junior lacrosse championship at Stevenson Park today at 3 p.m. to wind up the Victoria Minor Lacrosse Association season.

The Bays forced a fifth game Tuesday night by whipping Esquimalt, 10-6.

Three British Columbia championship teams—Stubbs, Pee Wees, Oak Bay Bantams and Juvenile "B" All-Stars—are requested to meet at Stevenson Park Monday afternoon at 4 p.m. in uniform.

Thomas and Varley Win; Stop Sweep for Cooper

Main-event victories by Corky Thomas and Dick Varley stopped Dave Cooper from scoring sweeps in both big-car and stock-car racing events at Shearings Speedway Saturday night.

Cooper, however, emerged as the big winner at the Cowichan Bay Road track, boosting his seasonal-points lead in both divisions as he picked up four first places and finished second in each main event.

In racing-car competition, he took the checkered flag in the helmet dash and first heat race before Thomas, who had a "hot" machine Saturday, roared to his surprise victory in the "A" main.

Varley outdove Cooper in the stocker "A" main after the point leader had driven to first-

Navy and Oak Bay got the Victoria Canadian Junior Football League season under way Saturday in an exhibition game played before a fair crowd at Navy's Colville Road grounds. Despite short training period, both teams came up with smart display and indicated that Canadian football in Victoria is headed for banner season. Here, Oak Bay quarterback Denny Boyd is given plenty of protection by his line as he fades back to pass. The Bays picked up most of their yardage through the air in the first half but faded in the second when superior conditioning helped Navy to a 10-6 victory.

City Grid Season Opens

Better-Conditioned Navy Team Wins Exhibition Football Game from Bays

Canadian football in Victoria appears set for its best season yet. Saturday at Colville Road grounds, a better-conditioned Navy squad rolled to a 10-6 exhibition victory over Oak Bay, which was making its first start in the league in two years. A fair-sized crowd, many of whom were surprised at the showing made by the two clubs, turned out.

Although both teams will need to smooth out, Saturday's game gave an indication that the brand of football will be improved over that of last season and Navy, which wound up in the cellar, will be no easy opponents this year.

Better conditioning played a large part in the sailors' victory.

Smartly-attired in green and white uniforms, they held a 4-0 lead at half-time and then overcame a 6-4 deficit in the fourth quarter, when Oak Bay's line gave way to allow the sailors to rack up steady yardage.

Confining their attack to the ground for almost the entire game, the winners twice pushed deep into Oak Bay territory in the first quarter while the Bays muffed a chance in the early stages of the second.

Navy picked up a single point midway through the second half when Len French fumbled Doug Brown's kick behind his own goal line and was dropped by a swarm of Navy tacklers. On the last play of the quarter, Brown picked up a loose ball and drop-kicked a field goal to put the Sailors ahead, 4-0.

There was no further scoring until early in the fourth quarter, when George "Pee Wee" Wilson ran back a Navy kick 46 yards to paydirt and Ken Higgs converted to put Oak Bay ahead, 6-4.

Navy, gaining steadily on ground plays moved the ball 60 yards and climaxed the drive when Dave—Buck—crashed through from the five-yard line. Brown converted.

Navy's line was solid throughout and the winners, although breaking through for several long gains, did most of the damage with short runs. At one time in the fourth quarter, Navy marched to four consecutive first downs and didn't gain more than five yards on any one play. Borek and Jack Grant did most of the ball-carrying for the winners and Brown proved he will be a help with his accurate toe.

Gordie Bennett, 220-pound end, and Red White were outstanding for Oak Bay, which did most of its damage with an aerial attack engineered by quarterbacks Ray Ramsay and Denny Boyd.

Reds To Sign Clay Hopper?

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Manager Clay Hopper of the Pacific Coast League Portland Beavers "appears to have the inside track" on the job as pilot of the Cincinnati Redlegs, the Herald-Express said Saturday.

Commenting on the report, president George Norgan of the Portland club, said: "It's news to me, but I'm not surprised. I won't stand in his way although I would hate to lose Clay."

Rogers Hornsby was fired Thursday as manager of the National League Redlegs.

Dale Long Named Standout Player

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Dale Long, slugging Hollywood first baseman and outfielder, has been selected as the outstanding player of the Pacific Coast League for the 1953 season. His selection, made by the Baseball Writers' Association of the Pacific Coast, was by a 5-3 margin over Jackie Tobin, Seattle outfielder.

Long led the league in homers with 33 and in runs batted in with 116. It was his first full season in the league.

Native Dancer Out of Action

NEW YORK (AP)—Native Dancer was retired for the year Saturday by Alfred Vanderbilt, his millionaire sportsman owner, knocking out any chance that the grey three-year-old champion ever would meet the king of the handicap horses, Tom Fool.

Bruises which appeared in the Dancer's left forefoot after he won the $100,000 American Derby at Chicago's Washington Park August 22 have failed to heal.

Eskimos Take Four-Point Lead With Vessels Again a Standout

lead in the Western Interprovincial Football Union race.

The former Oklahoma All-American, who has now personally engineered four of the Eskimo triumphs, scampers for two touchdowns as coach Darrel Royal's squad ran its seasonal as Saskatchewan rolled over Calgary, 32-2, last Monday, was outpursed by quarter Claude Arnold of Edmonton. Riders completed five of 16 pass attempts for 37 yards while Edmonton completed one loss in the first game of the season.

CALGARY EDGED In other WIFU action, before 16,638 fans at Winnipeg, tackle Bud Tinsley blocked a convert attempt in the dying minutes to save a slim 16-15 for the Blue Bombers over Calgary Stampede.

The block by the former Los Angeles Rams' lineman, halted a tremendous fourth-quarter drive by the Stamps, which netted them two touchdowns and almost wiped out the winners' 16-5 lead. Lack of good placement kicking cost Calgary the game as Stan Kalusnick failed on their three after-touchdown kicks.

Quarterback Jack Jacobs tossed touchdown passes to end Bud Grant and halfback Tom Casey for Winnipeg's two majors. Buddy Korchak converted both and added a field goal and a single.

Fullback John Henry Anderson, end "Sugarfoot" Anderson and Pete Thodos, the league's leading scorer, went over for the Calgary touchdowns.

DORRIS OUTPASSED In the game at Regina, quarter Glenn Dobbs, who was Young Australian, star, Lewis Flood, in straight sets, 8-6, 6-4, 11-9. All four players are mainstays of the Davis Cup teams for their respective countries.

Miss Connolly, of San Diego, the United States and Wimbledon women's singles champion, was handed her second major defeat of 1953 when Shirley Fry of Akron, Ohio, beat her 6-2, 7-5.

Market Decline Claimed Not Sign of Depression

BOSTON (NANA)—The recent decline in stock prices has scared people. With the market breaking through its previous lows for this year, people are beginning to wonder if this means we are heading into another depression.

But the first sign of recession, when and if it comes, will not be a drop in stock prices. It is well to realize that the stock market today probably is the least vulnerable factor in our whole economy. This is not to say that stocks will not decline further.

Improved Weather Needed To Harvest

WINNIPEG (CP)—Many sections of Western Canada require two weeks of good weather before harvesting operations can be completed. The weekly crop reports of the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways says harvesting has again been delayed in parts of Manitoba and northern Saskatchewan.

Alberta Oil Yield Increased

CALGARY (CP)—Alberta oil production in the first seven months of 1953 totaled 39,445,594 barrels, up 8,935,347 barrels over the same 1952 period. The Petroleum and Natural Gas Conservation Board, in its report for July, said today output that month reached 7,723,760 barrels compared with 6,469,655 barrels in June, 1953.

Another 85 oil wells were brought in during July to boost the province's total wells capable of production to 1,155, an increase of 920 in one year. The Leduc-Woodbend field has the most wells, 1,188 followed by Redwater with 526.

There has been a notable increase in the number of wells at three prolific new Alberta fields. At the end of July, Arma-Camrose had 244 wells, an increase of 164 in one year; Bonnie Glen, compared with only seven at July 31, 1952; and Wizard Lake 14, up 22.

Gross value to producers of crude produced in the first seven months of this year was $24,636,331, a boost of more than $21,200,000.

Natural gas production in this period was 63,156,101,000 cubic feet, an increase of 8,336,825,000 cubic feet.

Mining Notes

Brannick M.S. and Anaconda-Lebridge merger completed. Initial $7,500,000 financing with following $17,000,000 arranged. Anaconda retains 19.3 per cent interest in new company.

Production from Sheep Creek's 'Mineral King' (B.C.) expected early 1954.

Strong demand for lead in short supply. Zinc sales difficult.

Discovery Y.K. 1400 level providing rich ore.

Craigie-Kleithier, adjoining Campbell Red Lake, assumes importance; to be drilled.

Hollinger's latest dividend gives cumulative total of $130,210,000.

Western Tungsten from Red Range mine (B.C.) produced $325,370 concentrates for quarter ending July.

Uranium discoveries at Blind River sprang 50 miles east as Plum Uranium and Noranda investigate radioactive outcrops.

Ogemiska arranges to place production in production by December.

Maple Bay Copper Mines formed to develop property 300 miles north of Vancouver. B.C. Estimated to contain 500,000 tons 3 per cent and 1,500,000 tons 2 per cent copper.

Uranium staking increases northeast Alberta. Latest discoveries near Fort Chipewyan.

New Larder drill sets parallel ore zone.

Sherrill Gordon, Lynn Lake, nears production.

Canada's gold holding 31, July, $242,000,000, a new high of $242,000,000.

Optimism reigns at Nudama, N.B., as electromagnetic survey confirms possibilities over 4,000 feet length.

God's Leap entering New Brunswick and Blind River camps.

They will. If we run into a general business decline. But the market itself is not vulnerable as it has been at the height of previous booms on a price-earnings ratio. Even more important, there is little stock market debt.

Then, with the war's end, private debt took over... sparking the boom from there on in.

Since 1945 corporate debt has risen by about $79,000,000,000... mortgage debt by $39,700,000,000... consumer debt by $20,000,000,000... and farm debt by $8,700,000,000.

All in all, according to the department of commerce, we have increased our individual and corporate debt by over 100 per cent since 1945.

But people have been extremely reluctant to go into debt to buy stocks, the way people have done in order to buy autos, refrigerators or homes.

Mortgage loans are up less than 20 per cent from 1945... and are only about one-third of the figure back in 1929.

Now the governing factor of our willingness to go into debt certainly is psychological.

People will go into debts for homes and consumer goods only when they are sure of their jobs.

Corporations go into debt only when they think they can turn a profit on their borrowed money.

By the same token people will borrow to buy stocks on margin only when hope springs within them for an increase in price.

But it should be noted that borrowing to buy stocks is the only form of debt which people have not been willing to increase to any material degree.

Thus the tipoff to a general decline in the economy is much more likely to come through a decline in the rate of borrowing by corporations wishing to expand...

And, by the same token, the stock market should decline further only as a reflection of an expected drop in general business activity.

Or another way of putting it would be to say that the stock market never has been on the verge that other parts of the economy have been experiencing...

Quality of Service Matters Most In Institution of Health Insurance

Health insurance is not a new thing. It has been around for centuries. But it is not the same as it was then. Today's health insurance is a complex system of policies, with a wide variety of services. It is not just a matter of paying a premium and getting a policy. It is a matter of getting the best possible service. This is the key to the success of any health insurance program.

Old Weeds, Leaves, Straw Ideal For Purposes of Composting

Old weeds, leaves, straw, and other organic materials are ideal for composting. These materials are rich in nutrients and can be used to create a high-quality compost. Composting is a natural process that can be used to recycle organic waste. It is a simple and effective way to improve soil fertility and reduce the amount of waste sent to landfills.

Composting is a natural process that can be used to recycle organic waste. It is a simple and effective way to improve soil fertility and reduce the amount of waste sent to landfills. The process involves breaking down organic materials into a rich, dark soil. This soil can then be used to grow plants and vegetables. Composting is a sustainable and eco-friendly way to manage organic waste.

Report to UN States

Fight Against Polio 'Complete Failure'

ROME (AP)—Mass efforts to fight polio have been a complete failure, and the disease threatens to become a major problem in many countries, according to a report by the World Health Organization.

The report, which was presented to the United Nations General Assembly, states that polio has been a major problem in many countries since the outbreak of the disease in 1949. The report also states that the disease has been a major problem in many countries since the outbreak of the disease in 1949.

Building Program Germans' Recovery Result of Growth From War 'Amazing'

The $3,110,700 school building program to go to Greater Victoria for approval in December, was designed to meet the year-by-year growth in school enrollment and the replacement of obsolete and substandard buildings.

Greater Victoria School Board officials explain there were 900 additional pupils enrolled in local schools in September.

High school enrollment also increased, and the board expects that this trend will continue.

Officials state that the board is not planning to build new buildings until the present program is completed. The board expects that the present program will provide for the replacement of obsolete and substandard buildings and the addition of new classrooms.

School board officials answer arguments that there is a tendency to overbuild in the area by explaining that no new building program took place in any part of Greater Victoria between 1911 and 1917, when a start was made on the first post-war building program.

SECOND PROGRAM
Some attempt might have been made, they state, to replace outmoded school buildings during the late 1920s and early 1930s.

Pulled Plug Kills Boy

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Doctors found a nine-year-old boy who died at San Diego County Hospital when the electric cord of his iron lung was disconnected.

The boy had been admitted to the hospital Thursday in critical condition, and was placed in the respirator immediately.

Dr. Ladd, the boy's physician, said a nurse had pulled the plug from the iron lung when she left the room. When she returned a few minutes later, the plug was out of the iron lung and the boy was dead.

Ladd said a doctor who had been working near the machine when the boy died, had been told that no inquiry would be held.

Five other iron lungs in the hospital were operating properly, Ladd said.

IT HAPPENS IN TWO SECONDS

Within two seconds, a comet streaking across the sky can travel the almost unbelievable distance of 500 miles!

And as this glass-of-water test proves, within two seconds after you take Aspirin, it goes to work, to bring you relief.

Fast shows how fast Aspirin dissolves in your stomach!

FAST RELIEF FROM COLDS, SORE THROATS

At the first sign of a cold—before you do anything else—take two ASPIRIN tablets with a glass of water. Here's why:

When you have a cold, it's invariably accompanied by a headache, feverish feeling and muscular aches and pains. And it's very important to your well-being that you treat these distressing symptoms with a medication that will relieve them quickly!

ASPIRIN goes to work in two seconds to end your cold—sore throat discomfort. Yet the single active ingredient in ASPIRIN is so gentle to the system it has been used year in and year out by millions of people without ill effect! ASPIRIN is one thing you can take with complete confidence.

STAMP PACKET

Another fine stamp packet is being offered by the Victoria Philatelic Society. It is a collection of 10 stamps, including a 10-cent stamp featuring a portrait of a man, and a 10-cent stamp featuring a portrait of a woman. The stamps are arranged in a packet that is both attractive and informative. The packet is available for purchase at a special price of 10 cents. The Victoria Philatelic Society is a well-known organization in the philatelic community, and this stamp packet is a fine example of their work.

New Transmitter Aids Weathermen

A new transmitter, designed by a local engineer, is being used by the weather service. The transmitter is a small, portable device that can be used in a variety of locations. It is designed to be used in conjunction with a radio receiver, and it is capable of transmitting weather data over a long distance. The transmitter is a significant improvement over the old system, and it is expected to be used widely in the future.

Effects of Sunlight On Milk Is Checked

By THOMAS R. HENRY

MILK, the staple of many diets, is being subjected to a new test. The test is designed to determine the effects of sunlight on the milk. The test is being conducted by a local scientist, and the results are expected to be published in the near future. The test is a significant contribution to the field of nutrition, and it is expected to be used widely in the future.

With the same approach, we know that we can find the maximum for the following function:

$$f(x) = \frac{1}{2}x^2 - 2x + 1$$

For this function,  $x = 2$  is the value of  $x$  that gives the maximum value of the function. This is the same value of  $x$  that gives the maximum value of the function  $f(x) = x^2 - 4x + 2$ .

So, we can find the maximum value of the function  $f(x) = x^2 - 4x + 2$  by finding the maximum value of the function  $f(x) = \frac{1}{2}x^2 - 2x + 1$ .

Now we have arrived at the beginning of another beautiful season. A time when the festive spirit is already in the air. For the first month of the season, our 500,000 shareholders will receive a special dividend: a new, more powerful and more effective way of doing business. And for the first time, we will be able to offer our shareholders a new, more powerful and more effective way of doing business. Q1	What is the purpose of the study?	The purpose of the study is to investigate the effect of the use of a mobile learning application on the learning outcomes of students in a mathematics course.
Q2	What is the research design?	The research design is a quasi-experimental design, specifically a pre-test/post-test control group design.
Q3	What is the sample size?	The sample size is 60 students, divided into two groups of 30 students each.
Q4	What is the data collection instrument?	The data collection instrument is a mathematics test consisting of 20 multiple-choice questions.
Q5	What is the data analysis technique?	The data analysis technique is a t-test, which is used to compare the mean scores of the two groups.
Q6	What is the conclusion of the study?	The conclusion of the study is that the use of a mobile learning application significantly improves the learning outcomes of students in a mathematics course.
Q7	What are the limitations of the study?	The limitations of the study are the small sample size and the lack of a control group.
Q8	What are the implications of the study?	The implications of the study are that the use of a mobile learning application can be a valuable tool for improving learning outcomes in mathematics.
Q9	What are the future research directions?	The future research directions are to conduct a larger study with a control group and to investigate the long-term effects of the mobile learning application.
Q10	What is the overall summary of the study?	The overall summary of the study is that the use of a mobile learning application significantly improves the learning outcomes of students in a mathematics course.

Declare War on Short Skirt

BY CLAUDE CON

From the Victoria branch of the National Wallpaper Association, a group of women are declaring war on the short skirt. They are the members of the association's fashion committee, who are working to bring back the long skirt. They believe that the long skirt is more becoming and more practical than the short skirt. They are holding a series of fashion shows to promote the long skirt and to show the public that it is still a fashionable choice.

The American girl got another big boost from two others among the world's best-dressed women, Brigitte Bako and her fashion plate, and Norma Corkle, who is the bride of Eugene M. Johnson. The two women are the winners of the Victoria branch of the National Wallpaper Association's fashion show. They were chosen by a panel of judges to represent the association at a national fashion show in New York City. The winners will receive a cash prize and a trip to New York City.

Jacqueline Auriol Determined To Break British Jet Pilot's New Speed Record

LONDON, NANA.—The French government has announced that Jacqueline Auriol, a 34-year-old woman, will attempt to break the British jet pilot's new speed record of 1,016 m.p.h. set by Captain Johnnie Johnson in a de Havilland Comet 4 on July 15.

The attempt will be made in a de Havilland Comet 4, a four-engine jet aircraft, on the Paris-Bombay route. Auriol is a former champion swimmer and has been training for this feat for several months.

She will be accompanied by a crew of four, including a pilot, a co-pilot, and two attendants. The flight is expected to take about 12 hours.

Uncle Wiggily Story -- By Howard Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY DISAPPEARS

It was a very hot day in the old town of Wiggily. The sun was shining brightly, and the children were playing in the park. Uncle Wiggily was sitting on a bench, reading a book.

He had been sitting there for a long time, and he was getting very tired. He closed his book and yawned.

Just then, he heard a loud noise. He looked up and saw a large crowd of people running towards him.

He was very confused. He didn't know what was going on. He tried to get up, but he was too tired.

He fell back onto the bench. He closed his eyes and tried to go to sleep.

When he woke up, he found that he was alone. The crowd had disappeared. He looked around, but he couldn't find anyone.

He was very scared. He didn't know where he was. He tried to get up, but he was too tired.

He fell back onto the bench. He closed his eyes and tried to go to sleep.

Daily Astrology for Sunday and Monday

For every day of the week, the astrologer gives a forecast of the weather, the state of the mind, and the state of the body. The astrologer also gives advice on how to avoid bad luck and how to bring good luck.

For Sunday, the astrologer predicts a clear sky and a warm day. The mind will be clear and the body will be strong. The astrologer advises to go for a walk in the park and to enjoy the sun.

For Monday, the astrologer predicts a cloudy day with a chance of rain. The mind will be cloudy and the body will be weak. The astrologer advises to stay indoors and to rest.

Jim Nesbitt On Politics

Mr. Nesbitt, well-known writer and broadcaster on political and historical subjects, is a frequent contributor to The Daily Colonist.

BY JAMES K. NESBITT

The mask of politeness that has so far this session fastened itself on the Legislature may be gentlemanly and higher and finer, but it's apt to make for dullness.

The House has been sitting now for a week, and we've heard practically nothing but compliments, one side to the other. A whole week and not a cat-call or a howl of derision or an insulting remark. The tone may be lifted, but the entertainment value is almost nil, and so the galleries soon become bored and go to sleep or melt away.

Perhaps this politeness is natural enough this session. There won't be an election for four years, and so it's not necessary to impress the public with political oratory, desk-pounding, nasty name-calling, vocal gymnastics and fireworks.

Everybody's feeling sorry, so terribly sorry, for poor Attorney-General Bonner because he has to bring in a new liquor act. Politicians hate the very mention of the word liquor. Liquor can get politicians into awful hot water with the voters.

READY TO BLAME HIM

CCF chieftain Arnold Webster was sorry for the poor AG, Liberal leader Laing was sorry for him and so was Conservative House leader Laing. Webster, all sorts of sorry for Mr. Bonner about liquor. You see, they're likely getting ready to blame Mr. Bonner if anything goes wrong. It'll be all his fault! Poor Mr. Bonner!

Mr. Bonner looked somewhat astonished at this mass sorrow for him, but probably saw through it. He didn't appear one bit sorry for himself as he listened to all the opposition sorrow for him. He was grateful for the opposition's tears for him, and he hoped they'll all be mopped up in time for some opposition co-operation when the liquor act gets into the House. If Mr. Bonner gets this co-operation he'll know then the opposition tears for him weren't crocodile.

Premier Bennett was filled with politeness, too, when he spoke Friday. He spoke Mrs. Nancy Hodges on the floor of the House, loyal Nancy, one of the few Liberals who turned up to hear their new chieftain, Mr. Laing, make his maiden legislative speech. If Mr. Laing had won his gamble and become the Liberal premier, why, then, the galleries and guest seats on the floor of the House would have been bulging with beaming Liberals, some with their hands out.

Anyway, Mr. Bennett, with that gallant smile of his, pointed out Mrs. Hodges to the House. She said she was a fine Madame Speaker, had made a great contribution to B.C. One couldn't help but wonder why, if Mr. Bennett was convinced of this, he did his best to defeat her. Such, of course, is politics.

Beaming at Mrs. Hodges, the premier recalled the happy old days of coalition, when he and Mrs. Hodges, he said, worked so harmoniously together for the good of all. And he knew that everyone was glad, just delighted, to see Mrs. Hodges looking so well.

However, the premier didn't go so far as to wish that Mrs. Hodges would one day be back in this House. Mrs. Hodges looked pleased at all this attention, though being a Good Liberal she's probably quite convinced Social Crediters are just a bunch of upstarts who'll do this province no good.

The premier held up Mr. Uphill of Fernie and Mr. Winch of Burnaby to new MLAs, his own side included, as shining examples of faithful and honest service to the public. He said how sorry he is that Education Minister Tilly Rolston and Finance Minister Einar Gunderson haven't House seats, but don't worry, have no fears, he said, they soon will have by-elections, you know! This was the answer to CCF chieftain Webster, who the day before said that surely the premier could find an education minister and a finance minister from among his 27 House supporters.

STUBBORN MAN

The premier, however, is a stubborn man; he's loyal to Mrs. Rolston and Mr. Gunderson, he's determined to get them into the House if he can, and so there'll be by-elections. Once more the Premier will take one of these political gambles that have so far paid off so handsomely for him. When will his luck run out? He said Friday that if Social Credit does its duty it's in for 50 years.

pleased, how delighted, how almost overjoyed he is that CCF chieftain Arnold Webster, Liberal chieftain Arthur Laing, and Conservative House boss Dr. Gunderson, (who has only himself to boss) were elected. Yes, it's good, said the Premier, to have Messrs. Webster, Laing and Gunderson in the House.

Then he promptly announced Social Credit plans he hopes will keep Messrs. Laing and Gunderson, and all other Liberals and Conservatives out of the Legislature for all time—for those 50 years, anyway. He announced the alternative voting system will be scrapped. He said the two-party system is best—and the two-party system, to his way of thinking is made up of SC and CCF.

FASCINATING

The chapter entitled "Alternative Voting," in the B.C. Book of Politics will make fascinating reading in the years to come.

Alternative voting was cooked up by the Coalition Government. It was designed to put one of the Coalition partners in as the government, the other as the opposition, turn and turn about, as in the good old Liberal and Conservative days. It was supposed to keep the CCF out. But along came those impatient fly-by-night Social Crediters, and everything went into reverse. Just look what happened! Out went the Liberals and Conservatives, and in came SC and CCF as the dominant political forces in B.C.

One would think, as a matter of fact, that SC's and CCF's would be overjoyed with alternative voting. It certainly didn't do them any harm.

WANTS MORE

However, Social Credit having achieved so much, Premier Bennett wants more. He wants to wipe out Liberals and Conservatives entirely. If the old system of voting which is coming back, marking just one X on the ballot papers, had been used last June, there wouldn't be a Liberal or a Conservative now in the House. The premier, politically, but cruelly and factually, reminded Liberals and Conservatives of this when he spoke Friday. Such contemplation gave the premier delicious political joy.

On the first count, which is the final count under the old system, Social Credit would have taken Nanaimo; Mrs. Rolston would have beaten Arthur Laing in Point Grey; Mr. Gunderson would have had Oak Bay, not Liberal Mr. Gibbs; and in Lillooet and Prince Rupert, the CCF would have won instead of Liberals. The whole House, under the old system, would now be SC and CCF, with the exception of old Tom Uphill.

It will be interesting to see if the lone Conservative and the four Liberals will go for abolition of alternative voting. If they do, they'll be voting to wipe themselves out of existence.

Alternative voting—brought in by Liberals and Conservatives to crush the CCF, and now being thrown out by Social Credit, with CCF blessings, in the hope that Liberals and Conservatives will be crushed once and for all. Wonderful, isn't it?

And won't it be strange, if the old system that's coming back should succeed in crushing Social Credit?

It wasn't easy to believe, but there stood Percy Wright making a speech in the Legislature, he so punctilious when appearing as assistant city clerk before mayor and aldermen in city council chamber. Yes, there he stood, boldly presenting the grievances of Victoria's citizens in the chamber of the province's highest and most important lawmakers, as an MLA far out-ranking mayor and aldermen.

Mr. Wright doesn't appear to be worried at all about the big bunches of sour grapes and the out-of-joint noses at City Hall. He doesn't seem to care whether he has a City Hall job or not.

Mayors and aldermen apparently don't like their underlings in high position. They find it humiliating and embarrassing, especially those who couldn't accomplish what an underling did—election to the Legislature.

Yes, it was quite fascinating looking at, and listening to, young Mr. Wright speaking in the marble-pillared legislative chamber with all the aplomb of a mayor or an alderman.

Impaired by Alcohol, Two Motorists Fined

Elmer Joe, Saanichton Bay, and William Robbins, Nanaimo, each was fined $200 or 15 days in jail when they pleaded guilty Saturday to a charge of driving while their ability was impaired by alcohol.

Magistrate H. C. Hall asked for a probation report of each driver before making recommendations concerning suspension of their licenses.

Joe was involved in a head-on collision on Catherine Street near Skinner on Friday night. Evidence was that Joe said he had 16 glasses of beer in a beer parlor and some drinks in Chinatown. No one was injured in the collision.

Court heard that Robbins admitted drinking about six bottles of beer and a "couple of rums."

Each was charged separately and each pleaded guilty.

Peter Bottoms, 1422 Harrison, was fined $200 or 15 days when he pleaded guilty to driving without a driver's license.

Navy Rating Remanded For Break-In Decision

Melvin Spence Rees, 22-year-old naval rating, has been remanded until Wednesday for a decision on his break-in and pre-emption from Magistrate H. C. Hall.

Evidence Saturday was completed by prosecution and defense counsel. Rees is charged with breaking and entering the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Chaplin, 980 Quadra Street, on August 30.

DOCTOR TESTIFIES

Dr. Douglas Alcorn said he examined the accused September 2 and did not find any sign of mental disease or of unsound mind, except for some hazy recollections of his career due to drinking on present and previous occasions.

Rees told the court Saturday that he didn't remember anything that occurred on the night in question. He had been drinking at a beer parlor, a club and at a friend's home the preceding day, but did not remember leaving the home, he said.

Earlier evidence was that the accused was apprehended in a drunken condition and highly emotional state at HMCS Naden, where he is stationed.

Paint Job on Stack Ticklish Undertaking

Three stepladders employed by Custodius Construction Company, of Chicago, were engaged in a ticklish job Saturday, painting the 150-foot-high smokestack at the B.C. Forest Products plant on Gorge Road.

The stack, high as a seven-story building, is being painted with a preservative to seal cracks in the cement. Strengthening steel bands are also being put on the sides of the stack.

The stepladders are hoisted to the job by a gas winch. The scaffold hangs from hooks attached to the tower top. Height isn't bother the men, but if the wind changes to make the smoke descend around them, work stops.

Colwood Firemen Train On Civil Defense Truck

Civil defense fire truck is now stationed at Colwood for familiarization of its equipment by the volunteer fire department there.

The truck is equipped with two-way radio.

Radio equipment is being installed on Esquimalt equipment, connecting the truck with both naval and city fire departments, it was disclosed Saturday.

A rescue party will participate Monday in an exercise with ambulance drivers and stretcher bearers at Clover Point at 7:30 p.m., defense co-ordinator L. G. Hatcher said.

A training film will be shown to those participating later at Red Cross House, Fort Street.

Know Your Chest Agencies Money You Give Helps In Boy Scout Activities

Many people seeing uniformed Boy Scouts engaged in one of their activities, are reminded of those youthful days when this association fostered their interest in the world around them and prepared them for useful citizenship.

They went to summer camps, learned knot-tying, swimming and citizenship, and fondly imagined that this wonderful organization operated on their 10-cent-a-week contribution.

But a host of administration and maintenance costs, plus the operation of camps such as Barnard near Sooke put total expenses far beyond the reach of the average boy's pocket.

For this reason the Boy Scouts' Association of Victoria is a member agency of the Community Chest. Just over 4 per cent of the Chest's income is handed over to the capable and public-spirited organizers of the Scouts.

These funds enable the Scouts to keep going, they also do away with the need for the boys to raise their own funds and eliminate a separate annual appeal.

Their extra cash requirements are cared for by those good citizens who invest their dollars in the Community Chest. Many of those who are now being asked to give were once members of the boys' movement and now have children of their own in the Scouts.

It is a golden opportunity for all old Scouts to repay the debt they owe this organization if they will "Be Prepared" when the Community Chest canvasser calls.

National Apprenticeship Program Urged

BY BILL MAYOR

The time is at hand when government, education and industry must get together in the co-ordination of a national apprenticeship program according to J. D. Ferguson, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

Mr. Ferguson says he believes the promotion of training in Canada. These are:

An educational program, as wide as possible, to promote an awareness of the value of apprenticeship to the community, the young employee and to industry.

Recognition of the need for a properly developed apprenticeship system on a national scale.

Development by industry of standard and tested course outlines of on-the-job instruction in those trades which are basic or which will become so. Co-ordination of academic subjects must be part of any proper scheme.

Ready to vote in civic elections this December is an ardent trade union member and out-right speaker, John L. Martin. He reached city hall Friday, despite crippling effects of arthritis, to check that his name is on the voters' list.

At an early stage in his career, John recalled, he filed nomination papers at the same hall as an aldermanic candidate. His name was on a ballot list- ing 28 aldermanic candidates in January, 1914. Ten were elected and he was 18th, receiving ten of doing so, and follow- ing suspension of the fish- men's union by the Trades and Labor Congress on grounds of left-wing leadership.

The first of 31 locals along the coast, Quathiashli Cove was organized in favor of the SIU on Friday, it was reported.

The department of labor has revealed that there were at the end of last year about 63,000 female workers in the province. In various occupations and in- dustries covered by minimum wage orders.

Not all these, however, are likely to be affected by the proposed new legislation of "equal pay" in the legislature.

The legislation, it is expected, will be detailed as to equal pay for equal work, still separating many women from men in pay scales.

For all occupations included in a survey, the average figure representing weekly earnings for all female workers was $34.24.

requiring the co-operation of the educational authorities.

He says he emphasizes the term "standard" because studies should be equally acceptable anywhere in Canada.

Mr. Ferguson is to expand his views this week as the fifth in a series of five speakers on train- ing and apprenticeship. The pro- grams, carried by 70 independent Canadian radio stations, are sponsored by the federal de- partment of labor.

In British Columbia at the end of last year there were 1,523 apprentices registered under the B.C. Apprenticeship Act.

In Victoria and on Vancouver Island there were 338, the pro- vincial labor department re- ported.

There are 23 trades listed under the act, the most popular being automotive maintenance, in which 297 persons were registered. On the other end of the scale sign and pictorial painting had five registrations, and glassworking, four.

Contract dispute between seven cartage firms and their 150 employees engaged in driv- ing, swamping and warehouse work, will go to a conciliation board.

Robert Milliken, business agent for the General Team- sters' Union, Local 886 (TLC), said employees seek a 10-cent-an-hour wage increase on cur- rent wages of from $1.35 to $1.47, increased statutory hol- idays and shorter working hours.

Wishing to retain present conditions are Dowell's, Central Cartage, Heaney's, Stocker's, Alert Service and McIlwaine Bros.

Victoria District Trades and Labor Council (TLC) will notify the Trades and Labor Congress offices in Ottawa that some Saanichton Experi- mental Station employees were not told of time-off for voting in the recent federal election.

The request for the notifica- tion came from the experi- mental station branch of the Amalgamated Civil Servants of Canada, whose headquarters also will be notified, it was learned Saturday.

IRA Plans Rising

LONDON (NANA)—Both Britain and Northern Ireland have been warned: the outlawed Irish Republican Army is on the march again. Secret test mobilizations are being held north of the border—rehearsals for a carefully planned fifth-column rising.

It's a new IRA, with new leaders—men who have learned the grim lessons of modern war on the battlefields of Europe and in the brutal campaign against the British forces in Israel.

ARMS FLOWING

It is well armed and ably led. And there are formations in the Irish Republic to reinforce the divisions in the north, should the first blow fall to knock out the Loyalist forces in Ulster.

Arms have been flowing steadily into southern Irish ports for smuggling over the border. Funds from the United States have made the IRA stronger than at any time in the last 30 years.

But the most dangerous symptom of the new movement is the keen appreciation its leaders have for psychological warfare—the warfare of nerves. They bank on such swift action that any counter-attack by Britain will be paralyzed and the neutrality of the Irish Republic destroyed.

NO BOMBS

This time it will be no terrorist campaign, no bombs. Instead, there will be commando tactics, which the leaders hope, will result in a bloodless revolution.

These are the facts gathered in Ireland. It is not another scare story. Officially, the government of Northern Ireland, the government of Eire and the police forces in both countries will not talk about the IRA. Many Nationalist leaders refuse to admit that it exists.

But behind the scenes there is fear—for the new IRA is far stronger and cleverer, and zero hour is near.

Communists Put Off Delivery of Captives

PANMUNJOM (AP)—Without explanation, the Communists Sunday put off until Thursday the delivery into Indian custody of more than 300 Allied prisoners including some Americans labeled by the Reds as "unwilling" to return home.

House Won't Discuss West Coast Road

The West Coast road to Tofino will not be considered at this session of the Legislature, Hon. P. A. Gagliardi, minister of public works, said Saturday. The minister flew to the West Coast centres of Tofino and Ucluelet Saturday to review the situation personally.

He was accompanied by district engineer Neil McCallum.

"We may build this road a piece at a time," he said. He indicated he would bring the question up at the spring session of the legislature. Appropriations could be made every year.

A new survey would have to be made, he said.

At a luncheon at Ucluelet he said the road might be built through co-operation between the minister of lands and forests and himself, as minister of public works.

He invited a delegation from the West Coast to visit Victoria and see himself and the minister of lands and forests after the present session prorogues.

"We will have more time then and can discuss the problem more fully," he said.

A bid by the small logging operators' association to build the road was as much as a contractor would expect, Mr. Gagliardi said.

They made a submission stating they would build a road for $2,000,000, he said. This only included 34 miles. Actually 57 miles of road are needed because MacMillan & Bloedel owns the other roads on the proposed route, he stated.

FIRST VISIT

Mr. Gagliardi said last night that he was the first government minister from any department ever to visit the West Coast centres.

"They really appreciated my visit," he said.

He and Mr. McCallum flew to the Tofino airport where they were met by representatives of the newly formed Tofino village commission, Ucluelet and Port Alberni Chamber of Commerce, Tofino Board of Trade, small operators' organization, Alberni Board of Trade, and Port Alberni and District Chamber of Commerce.

The party visited Tofino and attended a luncheon at Ucluelet. Mr. Gagliardi said he had pursued every avenue he said he would at that time.

He asked for federal aid on the basis of millions of dollars of revenue the federal government gets from that part of the country, and the value of the road for defense, he said.

The federal government has refused to help on the grounds that the road was not of sufficient importance to the Dominion at the present time, Mr. Gagliardi said.

He later sent a provincial engineer through for a reconnaissance report which has now been submitted to an interested parties, Mr. Gagliardi said.

COMPANY ROAD
He asked MacMillan & Bloedel for permission to use the company road from Ucluelet to Kennedy Lake on the West Coast and Alberni to Sprat Lake on the other end.

H. M. MacMillan told me he didn't see how this could be possible right now because his company was still using the roads for logging at present, Mr. Gagliardi reported.

Representatives of the various groups voiced appreciation for Mr. Gagliardi's visit. Now that he had visited the West Coast and looked the situation over, he had more idea of the potential of the West Coast and would work harder for them, they predicted.

Interior IWA Set Strike Vote

VANCOUVER (CP)—Policy committee of the International Woodworkers of America Saturday recommended the rejection by southern Interior loggers of a conciliation board award.

Woodsmen in the northern Interior have already set September 25 as the date for a government-supervised strike vote after turning down a recommended six-cent increase.

ESCAPE OF BERIA TO WEST CLAIMED

Missing Man May Broadcast

LONDON (AP)—British officials believe that long-missing diplomat Donald Maclean may soon broadcast to the world from behind the Iron Curtain.

This theory emerged eight days after Chicago-born Melinda Maclean and her three children vanished in Switzerland—in order, the British think, to rejoin her husband somewhere in Europe's Red belt.

Maclean, debonair and brilliant, skipped his foreign office desk more than two years ago with a colleague, Guy Burgess. The greatest international man-hunt since the collaring of the Nazi war criminals followed, but it ended against a blank wall in France.

Maclean's wife and children, too, escaped a hunt by thousands of Allied police and secret agents that has girded the Continent to the gateways of Red Europe.

The British foreign office won't put its name to any one theory—officially.

But it is clear officials believe Mrs. Maclean and her children have rejoined Maclean somewhere in East Europe through a Red pipeline.

This conclusion in turn has led the British authorities to assume the reunion is a reward to Maclean for past services and that the Reds will use it as an inducement to him to do even more in the future.

Until last week the foreign office wondered why Maclean and Burgess had not been used publicly by the Communists. In fact they even had some slight reservations that the pair had joined the Communists.

But the cloak-and-dagger disappearance of Mrs. Maclean and her children—almost certainly of her own free will—seems to have dispelled even these vague doubts.

British authorities now feel Maclean probably was not prepared to broadcast or write for the Reds—and so burn all his Western ties—until his family had rejoined him.

Aside from involving prestige and propaganda factors, the political importance of Maclean and Burgess to the Communists would seem to diminish as time goes on.

Maclean, who was 38 when he disappeared, was head of the American department. This gave him access to important policy documents. But these are probably out of date now. He also served on the British-Canadian American wartime committee that handled the political aspects of atomic energy development.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Soviet Russia backed Red China's insistence on a Korean "round table" peace conference Saturday with a demand for U.N. assembly debate on Communist proposals to include India and three other Asian nations.

The United States and its 15 Korean allies, already picked as the U.N. side in the conference, have announced they oppose another debate on the peace conference makeup.

They are still waiting for a direct reply from the Communists on the time and place of the proposed parley, after telling them the U.N. decision barring neutrals still stands.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was out of the city for the day, but a U.S. delegation spokesman said the Soviet move raised the question of whether the Communists really want a peace in Korea.

The British consul-general in Geneva announced that an intensive search is being made for the missing wife and three children of British diplomat Donald Maclean, who dropped out of sight two years ago. Mrs. Maclean is shown above with her children and her mother, Mrs. Melinda Dunbar, who notified police after her daughter left home by car for a three-day outing and did not return on time. ## Deposed Red May Bare Top Secrets

Ex-Boss of Police Seeks U.S. Asylum

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UP)—The San Diego Union reported Saturday that a refugee claiming to be ousted Soviet secret police chief Lavrenti Beria has escaped from Russia and is offering to exchange top Russian secrets for asylum in the United States.

The newspaper reported in a copyright dispatch that the man claiming to be Beria and three other top Soviet Communists who escaped from under the eyes of Soviet guards are now hiding in a "deep southern country."

The newspaper did not say specifically where the men were hiding, but it said it came upon the story during an investigation of Communism in Latin America.

ORIGINAL CONTACT

The Union said it was the intermediary through which the original contact was made between the man, the McCarthy senate investigating subcommittee and U.S. intelligence agencies.

The newspaper said it had withheld publication of the story because of its importance until reports of it leaked in Washington.

The original report that four top Communist leaders had escaped from Russia and were seeking asylum here came to the San Diego newspaper as the result of an investigation it is making of Communist infiltration in Latin America.

FEAR FOR LIVES

The newspaper said the information was routed through a western hemisphere centre of Communist espionage operating out of Mexico City. The members of the centre now fear for their lives as a result of Beria's ouster by Premier Georgi Malenkov.

The newspaper said it gave the information to the McCarthy subcommittee and to government investigating bodies.

Since then, an agent of the McCarthy committee has been in touch with the man representing himself as Beria, who was ousted last July 9 as home minister and first deputy chairman of the council of ministers.

According to the information given the newspaper, Beria and his three companions escaped by plane from Russia and are hiding in a neutral country.

The Communist agent in Mexico City who forwarded the information described an elaborate but precise arrangement by which an American agent could contact the refugees in the neutral country.

The directions were carried out and a preliminary contact was established, the Union said.

Great Hoax or Fact? Probers Seek Answer

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate investigations subcommittee Saturday was reported studying a tip that Lavrenty P. Beria, deposed former boss of Russia's secret police, has escaped from Soviet Russia and is hiding in a neutral country.

The subcommittee's chairman, Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.), declined to comment on the report, which came from a Senate source.

The Senate source said army intelligence officers also are investigating the case, seeking to determine whether it is a "great hoax or a fantastic fact."

The man representing himself as Beria, the informant said, told a story of having escaped by plane to a neutral non-Communist country.

The McCarthy subcommittee's interest in the matter presumably would be in Beria's knowledge—if he should be at large—of Soviet secret agents in this country.

The Senate source said there reportedly have been discussions in neutral countries of possible asylum for Beria in the West, perhaps even in the United States.

Officers Killed By Deserters

BERLIN (AP)—Two patroling Soviet officers have been killed by red army deserters in the East German town of Luckenwalde, the U.S.-licensed German language newspaper Neue Zeitung said Sunday.

The report said the officers were shot by heavily armed soldiers who deserted when their unit was recalled to Russia. The deserters have gone into hiding in East Germany.

'Darkened' Gardening Productive

Sightless gardeners had an exhibition of vegetables, fruit and flowers in the City Market Saturday. Arrangements for the booth were made by members of the women's auxiliary to the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, who attractively displayed the fruits of labor of the blind gardeners. Home cooking by blind women was also shown. Pictured above are Mrs. James Ryan, Mrs. E. Brand, and Mrs. J. D. E. Boyde, who were in charge of the stall. (Story on Page 2.)

Wreck Reached By Helicopter

VANCOUVER (CP)—An RCAF helicopter late Saturday landed three men beside the wreckage of a Mitchell bomber on a snow-capped mountain 25 miles northeast of here.

An air force spokesman at Sea Island said Saturday night the men would ramp by the wreckage overnight and start clearing a landing strip for the helicopter in the morning.

The helicopter will attempt to recover the bodies of five crew members lost when the Mitchell crashed last January on a flight from Saskatoon.

The helicopter dropped the three RCAF men at the 5,500-foot level of the mountain from a height of less than 10 feet.

Meanwhile, a seven-man ground party returned to Vancouver after abandoning an attempt to reach the wreckage. The party turned back after search officials found that a helicopter would be able to land men at the scene.

Earlier, it was reported that members of the ground party were suffering from exhaustion and minor injuries and would

Tickle Fixed By 13 Stitches

CLEVELAND, O. (UP)—Orelavio Glovznadic, 22, is going to lock the bathroom door the next time he shaves—or else get an electric shaver.

Glovznadic, who was recently married, was shaving with a straight razor when his wife suddenly tickled him. He jumped and the razor slit his chest open from his collar bone to the bottom of his ribs.

Doctors at Polyclinic Hospital sewed him up with 13 stitches.
